FREED BY FIREMEN

Girl Gets Finger Stuck Atop Slide

Eight-year-old Cathy Pellegrini was caught by a finger for 45 minutes at the top of a slide in Sausalito yesterday while three firemen worked to free her.

Dr. William L. Lifson, who was called to give the girl novacaine shots to relieve her pain, said today the finger is not broken.

Cathy, at home with her mother, Mrs. D. V. Ceroni at 405 Pine Street, said her finger was still swollen and "I can't bend it."

Cathy went to the small playground on Caledonia Street near the firehouse to play with her 2-year-old brother, Alex. At 4:30 p.m. when she was about to slide down the slide, she saw her brother at the bottom and leaned back to tell him to get out of the way. As she did so, the third finger of her left hand slid into a hole in the top step of the slide ladder.

Cathy's knuckle caught in the hole. Unable to free herself she called to a woman passing by, who alerted firemen.

Capt. John L. Terris, Ralph K. Pedersen and Max Robertson first tried medical soap to free the finger. This was unsuccessful. They next used ice bags but the knuckle had swollen and could not be slipped out.

Firemen removed the back section of the slide and began sawing with a hacksaw. When Cathy complained of the pain becoming too bad, Dr. Lifson was called and gave her novocaine shots.

The firemen continued sawing and used a hammer and chisel to bend the aluminum away from the finger. Cathy was finally freed at 5:15 p.m.

"It was something that might happen once in 100 years," said City Mgr. Charles A. Brown today. He said there is no defect in the slide and that each step has about 100 holes, into one of which Cathy's finger slipped.

FREE AT LAST — Cathy Pellegrini, 8, was "married" to the top step of this slide for 45 minutes yesterday after the third finger of her left hand got stuck in one of the holes. Sausalito Fire Dept. Capt. Harold Cardwell with hack saw demonstrates the method used by fire crews to free the child.

Tiburon Girl, 5, Dies; Struck By Milk Truck

A five-year-old girl was killed by a milk truck today while playing on a tricycle in front of her Tiburon Peninsula home.

Cathy Adams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Adams of 24 Venus Court, Belveron Gardens, was so close to the vehicle as to be invisible when it got under way.

The driver was James Tartaglia, 23, of 2463 Vineyard Road, Novato. He had just made a delivery shortly after 10 a.m. at 25 Venus Court across the road from the Adams home, according to neighbors.

Tartaglia returned to his truck and started to resume his delivery route without realizing the child was anywhere in the vicinity, he told the California Highway Patrol. The vehicle apparently had hardly moved before it struck the little girl, inflicting head injuries.

The child was taken by Marin Ambulance to Marin General Hospital but was dead on arrival.

Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapel of Mill Valley assumed charge of arrangements.

Cathy was one of five children, the others being Jane, 7; Nancy, 6; Billy, 3, and Laura, 5 months.

Her father is employed by Macy's department store in San Francisco.

This was Marin County's third traffic death in 1963. There had been three death at this time last year.

Investigation was under way by both the California Highway Patrol and the Marin County sheriff's office.

Attorney Job Sought By Menary

San Rafael City Councilman David Menary Jr., 36, a practicing attorney for 10 years, will run for the job of San Rafael city attorney in the April election.

Menary's announcement came today in the wake of rumors that several others are eyeing the job being vacated by City Atty. Albert E. Bagshaw. San Anselmo City Atty. John G. Buresh has indicated interest in the San Rafael job. Asst. Dist. Atty. Bruce B. Bales is another rumored candidate.

The San Rafael city attorney's job now pays $550 per month, but the city council is expected to review the salary on Feb. 4 for a possible raise.

Young Menary, son of former Sheriff David Menary Sr., was appointed deputy district attorney by William O. Weissich in February of 1953.

After Councilman Joseph E. Sauer died, Menary was named to the city council in November of 1959. He was elected to a four-year term on the council in 1961, topping a field of four candidates.

If Menary wins the city attorney's post, he will have to resign from the city council.

Council Must Act Soon On Salaries

The San Rafael City Council will have to act at its Feb. 4 meeting if it wishes to change the salaries of four elective officials for the next term.

The city charter provides that salaries of the chief of police, city attorney, city clerk and city treasurer shall be fixed by ordinance "from time to time" by the council. Practice is to review the salaries before each election, since both the charter and state law forbid their being changed during a person's term in office.

Last day to file nominations for the April 8 election will be March 8. This would necessitate introduction of an ordinance Feb. 4 for it to be enacted before the close of the filing period, City Atty. A. E. Bagshaw pointed out today.

Present salaries are: chief of police, $800 per month; city clerk, $750; city treasurer, $650, and city attorney, on part-time basis, $550.

Salaries of the mayor and councilmen are fixed by charter, the mayor receiving $100 per month and the councilmen $50 each.

Bagshaw said that, since he will not seek re-election, he will make no recommendation regarding the city attorney salary. He noted, however, that other cities in Marin, all of which have appointive city attorneys, pay monthly retainers plus fees for court appearances rather than a flat salary as in San Rafael.

Police Chief Charles J. Chiesa has announced his candidacy for re-election. City Clerk W. L. Morgan and City Treasurer Angelina J. Soldavini are both expected to seek re-election. All three of them are expected to ask the council to increase compensation for their jobs.

Collusion In Sales To Schools?

By ALTON S. BOCK

Collusion among sellers of school supplies was hinted yesterday at a discussion on purchasing procedures held by the Marin County superintendent of schools in the Civic Center.

Edgar W. Parsons, field representative of the State Department of Education's bureau of administrative services, reviewed a department report which had been requested by the State Assembly subcommittee on state purchasing.

"Many of the vendors of school supplies would just as soon not be competitive," Parsons said. He added that lack of competition was encouraged by the variety of ways in which school districts buy supplies, sometimes ignoring regular bid procedures.

The department's survey revealed extreme differences in prices paid for supplies such

BRIDGE LOBBYIST, GAG RULE DECIDED

Golden Gate Bridge District directors voted today to hire a lobbyist to speak for them in Sacramento, and the bridge board president ruled the public can speak only to committees on the bridge.

The directors voted 8-to-5 to hire lobbyist Gordon Garland at $1,500 per month plus expenses for six months as Sacramento lobbyist. Two weeks ago, the board was deadlocked on whether to give Garland the six-month contract or hire him month by month. Director William D. Hadler of San Francisco argued successfully today that there must be continuity in the district's representation at the capital.

A gag on public appearances before regular meetings of the board itself was invoked by president Ben K. Lerer.

Mrs. Margaret Azevedo of Belvedere appeared to ask answers to questions regarding rapid transit on the bridge which she submitted last October. The questions, said Lerer, had been referred to the building and operating committee, and she should get her answers from it.

The bridge district board does not intend to break into its meeting agendas to hear remarks or questions from the public, Lerer declared.

Director Leland S. Murphy of Marin objected. But Lerer declared the rule has been laid down: No questions except to committee meetings.

Terra Linda Oaks 9 Part Of City

For all practical purposes, Terra Linda Oaks 9 today became part of the City of San Rafael.

Mayor John F. McInnis yesterday notified city department heads:

"In view of the previous agreement by the city council as to the desirability of Terra Linda No. 9 being annexed to the city, and in view of the overwhelming vote of the district's people to annex to San Rafael, effective immediately we will consider the normal services of the City of San Rafael to be extended throughout the No. 9 area in all respects."

Terra Linda Oaks 9 residents on Tuesday approved annexation to San Rafael by vote of 178 to 42.

The mayor's action provides city services for Terra Linda Oaks 9 well in advance of completion of the legal formalities of annexation. Moreover, the Terra Linda Oaks 9 residents will not have to pay city taxes this year, as the annexation cannot be completed in time to meet the State Board of Equalization deadline for adding the area to the city tax roll, City Clerk W. L. Morgan disclosed today.

Next step in the annexation proceeding, said Morgan, will be passage of an annexation ordinance by the city council. Then this will be sent to the secretary of state for certification. After that is received, the certificate, map and accompanying notices will be filed with county offices.

Annexation becomes effective on certification by the secretary of state.

Bag Full Of Ballots Is Found

A package of marked ballots from last June's primary election was found on the roadside near Olema today.

County Clerk George H. Gnoss said the bag must have dropped off a truck, which hauled the old ballots out of the courthouse basement last week to be burned.

E. P. McCray of the county road department spotted the bag, which contained 173 ballots from precinct 3359, Westminster Presbyterian Church, 240 Tiburon Boulevard, Belvedere-Tiburon.

The county clerk explained that the bags of ballots from all precincts are kept in the courthouse basement for at least six months. Last week, he asked the county fire department to take all the ballots from the June primary election and burn them. One bag must have blown off the truck.

The clerk's records show that ballots of precinct 3359 were counted along with all other precincts and duly recorded. If ballots from any precinct were not accounted for, the discrepancy would have been discovered right away because of the system of checks and cross-checks, Gnoss declared.

A.F. Bomber Crashes On Mountain

GREENVILLE, Maine (AP) — Wreckage of a B-52 stratofortress and two survivors from its nine man crew were found today on Elephant Mountain, about 10 miles east of here.

The eight-million-dollar jet bomber, out of Westover Air Force Base, Mass., crashed head-on into a precipitous face of the 2,600-foot mountain last yesterday.

Bush pilot Budd Holt, who flew over at 500 feet, said the big, eight-jet plane was "completely disintegrated." the only things recognizable, he said, were a couple of tires.

The two survivors, not immediately identified, were flown in helicopters to Dow Air Force Base in Bangor.

Whether any other crewmen survived the crash—and biting cold that went down to an official 14 below here this morning—could not be determined immediately.

Facts In Jewel Thefts Are Sought At Trial

Trial of Mill Valley jeweler J. Robert Gomez continued in San Francisco superior court today with renewed efforts to get gem theft facts after sessions yesterday which were mostly devoted to contempt citations.

But testimony on the case itself brought a description of Gomez as "Mr. Big" in jewelry robbery affairs.

A Berkeley warehouseman, Eulas Carter, said that Matt Davis, formerly of Larkspur and an admitted jewel thief, applied this title to Gomez.

Describing how he drove Matt Davis to a lonely Mill Valley road to meet Gomez, Carter said Davis carried the loot in "a rag bag." This testimony caught attention of defense attorney George T. Davis because previous testimony by Matt Davis was that he'd used a sock as container.

"You mean the kind of bag with a string on the top?" asked the attorney.

The witness said he did.

Yesterday's contempt citations by Judge Norman Elkington included attorneys George Walker and Arthur Andreas, working for the same office and due to face penalties at the end of the trial for refusing to say whether Gomez had paid them to defend Matt Davis and a co-defendant, Davis Lewis Windham, who has also admitted jewel robberies.

Gang Member Is Given Life

VISALIA (AP) — A third member of a gang that preyed on hitchhiking servicemen, Avery Matthews, 19, of Los Angeles, was sentenced to life imprisonment today in Visalia.

Avery was convicted of conspiring to kidnap a hitchhiking paratrooper for robbery.

The same jury earlier this month found two other gang members, Ronald Polk and George Gregg, guilty of murder. They were sentenced to death in the San Quentin gas chamber.

Test Ban Talks End

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States, Britain and Russia concluded four days of nuclear test ban talks here today and agreed to resume meetings in New York next week.

Destroyers Arrive

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Three Pacific Fleet destroyers arrived at Treasure Island today for a two week stay. The 600 officers and crewmen of the Harry E. Hubbard, Samuel N. Moore and McKean will attend technical schools at the island base.

JFK Sees No Cuba Buildup, Tears Into De Gaulle

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy says evidence gathered through daily aerial scrutiny of Cuba fails to support reports of a massive new Soviet military buildup there.

Kennedy told his news conference yesterday that the 16,000 to 17,000 Soviets still on the island "are exercising, building some barracks.

And he says he knows of the arrival since the October crisis of only one Soviet ship that might have carried arms or other military cargo.

"There is no evidence that this ship carried any offensive weapons," he said.

In a session laced with foreign policy talk, Kennedy focused on the need for Western unity. He said it was not in the interest of the alliance for France to base its desire for an independent nuclear force "on the grounds that the United States would fail to defend Europe by whatever means are necessary."

As for French President Charles de Gaulle, Kennedy said, "I would hope that our confidence in him would be matched by his confidence in us."

The prime domestic topic of Kennedy's news conference was his call for a three-year tax cut of 13.6 billion dollars to be partly offset by 3.4 billion dollars of revenue - raising changes in special tax benefits.

Kennedy strongly implied he wants a first step rate cut of 3.2 billion dollars to go into effect this year—even if Congress puts aside proposed benefit revisions until a later date.

"We will just have to wait and see whether both can be done this year," he said. "In any case, we should be able to make progress, come what may, on the first step of the three-stage reduction."

Even as he expounded policy that could affect the nation's future tax history, Kennedy tried to clarify a bit of past history: The cloudy story of "air cover" for the U.S.-backed Cuban invasion of April 1961.

This was prompted by challenges thrown at a weekend statement by the President's brother, Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy, that no U.S. air cover ever was contemplated. This statement seemingly contradicted long-standing reports that the President canceled planned air cover.

Kennedy attributed the confusion to loose use of the phrase "air cover." He said his brother's statement was correct because the United States at no time planned to use its own planes to fly missions over the invasion beach.

But he said there was talk about an air strike by Cuban refugee pilots flying from bases outside the United States and that this "did not work out." He described this as "one of the failures" of the invasion.

Kennedy opened his conference by reading a statement directed not so much at the reporters present as at De Gaulle, who has given every sign of seeking a Europe divorced from Britain and the United States.

Picturing the Atlantic Alliance as a great shield that can "hold back the expansion of communism" if member nations work together, Kennedy said:

"That which serves to unite us is right, and what tends to divide us is wrong. We must continue on both sides of the Atlantic to work together in trust."

As the conference wound up, Kennedy was even more blunt. He suggested that Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev may have more faith than certain Europeans in America's commitment "to defend Europe with whatever means are necessary."

Other major topics touched on by Kennedy included:

Nuclear Tests—Khrushchev's recent acceptance of the principle of on-site inspection is "very important" and the possible forerunner of a breakthrough in nuclear test ban negotiations.

Missile Bases — There is no reason to expect Soviet concessions because Jupiter missile bases are being removed from Italy and Turkey. Kennedy said that since Jupiters will be replaced by submarine-based Polaris missiles moving about the Mediterranean, "we feel that provides a more adequate security."

Poland and Yugoslavia—Kennedy would like Congress to reverse a 1962 action which prevents him from setting up mutual tariff concessions with Poland and Yugoslavia when these seem in the best interests of U.S. foreign policy.

Merdith—If James Meredith withdraws from the University of Mississippi, "that is a loss not only to Mr. Meredith, but I think the university." Although curtailment of violence and protection of the Negro student cost the federal government four million dollars, Kennedy said it "would have been far more expensive" had the Negro been physically attacked or denied admission by force.

Newspaper Strikes — Kennedy wishes for an early end to newspaper strikes in Cleveland and New York. In the case of the New York walkout, he hopes both sides will "reach the compromise which utimately they are going to reach anyway."

END OF AN ANSWER—President John F. Kennedy's gestures carry through the end of an answer to question at his news conference yesterday in Washington, D.C. (AP Wirephoto)

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

Astronaut May Go Up April 2

WASHINGTON (AP) — Astronaut Leroy Gordon Cooper Jr. may begin his orbital flight, the longest and perhaps the last in Project Mercury, on April 2.

The Air Force major may remain aloft for 18 orbits —about 27 hours—and come down in the Atlantic north of Puerto Rico. Or, if all goes well, he may achieve 22 orbits—about 34 hours—and descend into the Pacific near Midway Island.

The National Aeronautics and Space Administration is not announcing launch dates this far in advance. An informed source said, however, that April 2 has been considered for planning purposes.

11 Congenital Births Reported

SYDNEY, Australia (AP) — Eleven congenitally deformed babies were born at one Sydney hospital within two months late in 1962, the Children's Medical Research Foundation reported today.

"None of the mothers had taken thalidomide during pregnancy," said Dr. J. F. Farrar.

"There was no evidence to incriminate other known drugs," Doctor Farrar said.

Hit-Run Auto Kills Three

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—A hit-and-run car crashed through a downtown street barricade and hit three workmen, killing one of them last night.

A fourth workman jumped into the car and struggled with the driver till the car stopped a block away. The driver fled on foot.

Police said the car was registered in one man's name and the license plate in another.

Four men were cutting a hole in the pavement to lay a telephone conduit when the car hit the barricade.

1,170 Cuban Refugees Arrive

FT. LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP)—An American freighter brought 1,170 more Cuban refugees through choppy seas today to refuge in the United States, and a free way of life that cost them all their material possessions.

The Shirley Lykes docked at Port Everglades, the port of Fort Lauderdale, bringing a human cargo back in the space which had been used to deliver ransom supplies to Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro in exchange for the Bay of Pigs captives.

Most of the Cubans, including 13 stretcher cases and seven paralytics, were relatives of the 1,113 invasion prisoners who were released last month.

DeKaplany Trial In Recess

SAN JOSE (AP)—The sanity trial of Dr. Geza deKaplany, who has pleaded guilty to the acid murder of his young bride, is in recess for the weekend.

DeKaplany's trial on his plea of innocent by reason of insanity recessed unexpectedly yesterday when the prosecution rested its case.

Defense attorney E. F. DeVilbiss said he would not be ready to place defense witnesses on the stand until Monday.

Marshmallow Death

OGDEN, Iowa (AP) — A 15-months-old boy who apparently choked on a marshmallow was found dead in his crib yesterday.

The baby, Dennis James Townsend, was the son of Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Townsend of Ogden. A deputy medical examiner said two other small Townsend children had been eating marshmallows and apparently put one in the infant's crib.

Against Death Penalty

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — The Irish government announced yesterday it wants to abolish the death penalty for most kinds of murder. A bill is to be submitted to parliament.

Campus Photos

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — The Montgomery Advertiser says a Justice Department spokesman has confirmed that the department had the Air Force take aerial photographs of the University of Alabama campus.

The newspaper said in today's editions that the photographs were made in anticipation of a possible integration showdown at the white university.

The Advertiser quoted Edwin O. Guthman, director of public information for the Justice Department, as saying "We wished to have them in case they were needed."

News Blackout

NEW YORK (AP)—Publishers and striking printers discussed issues for a record five hours yesterday in the 49-day-old New York newspaper blackout, but the talks ended with a no-progress report.

Congress Forfeiture?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Paul Jones (D-Mo.) has a suggestion for improving attendance at House sessions—dock members a day's pay for each day they are absent.

Jones told the House yesterday a law requiring such forfeiture is now in existence and should be enforced except when members are absent because of sickness.

A day's pay for congressmen is about $66. Jones suggestion was warmly received by the members present — about 120 of the 435 total membership.

A Lie: Meredith

JACKSON, Miss. (UPI)—James H. Meredith branded as "absolutely untrue" yesterday a published report that he is attempting to take financial advantage of the publicity surrounding his attendance at the University of Mississippi.

A nationally syndicated column said that Meredith had signed a contract to write a book on his experiences at Ole Miss and was trying to sell his story to a movie producer.

"It's the most ridiculous piece of writing I've ever seen," Meredith said after reading the column. "I haven't read anything in here that is true."

JFK For Winnie

WASHINGTON (AP) — President John F. Kennedy says he would be delighted if Congress passed a resolution granting honorary citizenship to Sir Winston Churchill or in some other way showing American esteem for him.

A resolution to bestow honorary citizenship on the wartime British prime minister is now in Congress.

Dockers Returning

NEW YORK (AP)—Many striking longshoremen may return to work tomorrow under terms of a settlement drawn up by the mediation board appointed by President Kennedy, a high union official says.

Dock workers are reported voting overwhelmingly in favor of the terms.

Walter A. Sullivan, secretary-treasurer of the Atlantic Coast District of the AFL-CIO International Longshoremen's Assn., said he hopes to be able to withdraw pickets from the Port of New York waterfront today.

Painting For Atlanta

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—The famous painting Whistler's Mother will be brought to Atlanta for an exhibition opening Feb. 10, Arthur L. Harris, French consular agent in Atlanta, said yesterday.

He told a news conference the French government said the painting by James Abbott McNeill Whistler would arrive Feb. 5.

The picture will be on loan from the Louvre in Paris as official recognition by the French government of efforts to build an art school in Atlanta as a memorial to Atlantans who died in an Orly, France, plane crash June 3, 1962.

LIKE OLD WEST

Pitchmen Take Young Congolese

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (AP)—The city slickers take the country boys in the Congo just as they did in the old West.

Just as they did in Cheyenne, Wyo., or Tombstone, Ariz., or Butte, Mont., the country boys eat it up and ask for more.

It's hard to believe you could find a three-card monte game in the heart of Africa but it's easy as walking across a country road.

In a streetside market in dowtown Leopoldville, wiry little Congolese squatted on the pavement conning the bystanders. He had three cards on the pavement. As in three-card monte of Wild Bill Hickock's time, two of the cards were face cards, one an ace.

The Congolese pitchman was as canny as any Western gambler.

"Come on," he said in the rapid Lingala dialect. "Beat me. It's easy. Try your luck."

Clumsily — for this is part of the pitch—he moved the cards around face down, but it was easy to see where the ace had been moved. It was to the right, and a young Congolese nudged a companion and grinned broadly.

He said something to his friend, and it simply had to be: "This guy is nuts. You can see where the ace goes. He must be giving his money away." His friend nodded.

The pitchman flashed a quick glance and he got even clumsier. Then he pulled a wad of money out of his pocket and chanted: "Here it is, take any or all of it."

That, anyway, must be the translation. It was all going according to pattern.

The young Congolese hesitated, then reached into his pocket, pulled out a few bills and squatted down. The pitchman put down a couple of hundred francs — a little over a dollar.

He switched the cards back and forth and the young Congolese pointed. It was the right one. He laughed in delight and picked up the mony. The pitchman looked worried and his forehead crinkled.

He sized the youth up swiftly, and then tossed out the equivalent of about $5. The young Congolese conferred briefly with his friend.

"Shall I call this guy? It's pretty near a cinch as I see it, but after all it'll mean my bankroll."

"Go ahead, you beat him the first time out. He's clumsy."

He plunked down his roll.

The pitchman moved the cards around with amazing speed. The youth studied the cards for a minute.

He pointed to the center card. The pitchman turned it over. The two young Congolese stared at the queen which mysteriously was where the ace should have been. The pitchman scooped up the money, then the cards.

"Come on, come on, come on, beat me. It's easy as falling off a log."

NAMED TO BOARD— Stanley Powell Jr. of 130 Barber Avenue, San Anselmo, president of the Matson Navigation Line, has been named to the board of directors of the Bank of California. Powell is also president and director of Oceanic Steamship Co. and Matson Terminals, Inc.

Sheriff's Patrol Car In Crash

A sheriff's patrol car, driven by Deputy Sheriff William Bradford, 30, received several hundred dollars damages in a two-car collision last Sunday morning at the Black Point cutoff intersection.

Bradford, headed north on Highway 101 about 1 a.m., said he noticed a car headed in a "furtive manner." The car turned into the left lane turn at Highway 37, and made a left turn on a red light. Bradford, in the slow lane, said he checked his side and rear view mirrors, saw no cars behind him, and made a left turn, reaching for the red light switches on the dashboard.

He heard screeching of tires and noticed a car right behind him. Bradford said he stepped on the accelerator but could not get away in time.

The other car, driven by Mario Bertini, 36, of 15 Jules Drive, Novato, collided with the left rear of the patrol car. The impact also damaged radio equipment in the sheriff's patrol car.

California Highway Patrol officers, who investigated, reported no one was hurt.

'Macbeth' Gets Good Sausalito Reception

By BRUCE COLEMAN

A Sausalito fireman summed up audience reception to Macbeth very neatly at the opening performance Wednesday at the Gate Theater:

"They were absolutely quiet except for an occasional cough," said Ralph K. (Swede) Pedersen. It was an occasion for Pedersen who used to "sneak in" to the place to see a movie when he was seven and who also recollects the stir that was caused at the theater when the first Vitaphone picture came to town.

Opening night was an occasion in many ways: The hall was full, an unusual occurrence in itself. The theater was being reopened after being closed several months. And, it was a brand new company, that of actor-manager Jack Aranson.

Aranson, who plays Macbeth and also directs, did a beautiful job and likewise did his lady, Suzanne Geier.

Aranson, a man with Old Vic and a ton of other theater experience under his heavy dress, spoke well, fought well, died well. His eyes reflected the haunting fears that plagued the Thane of Cawdor.

Miss Geier turned in a masterful performance, her final scene being the finest of all.

Dion Chesse, Henri Lysen and Cathryn Casamo were chilling enough as the three witches and did a good job of "double troubling" it around the pot although it seemed they might be a bit cramped for space.

Also playing strong roles were Russell Ernest as Banquo and Fred Hoffman as Macduff.

Three scenes we particularly liked were the battle scene at the end of the play, the scene between Macbeth and Banquo in which Banquo walks as a ghost and the "out damned spot" scene by Lady Macbeth.

John Gerrity Jr. did the excellent set; lighting and sound was by Earle Marsh of Mill Valley and costumes by Mary Rose McMaster, Aranson's wife.

The play, which is in two parts, will be given tonight and tomorrow at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday at 7:30 p.m. and on ensping weekends through February.

One player who was not seen but was always heard was Shakespeare, who recited midst his many lines: "We have scotch'd the snake, not kill'd it;" "There's no art to find the mind's construction in the face;" "It is a tale told by an idiot, full of sound and fury, signifying nothing" and "What's done cannot be undone."

Two Marin Youths Enlist In Navy

Wayne Scott Neubauer, 18, of 33 Fawn Drive, San Anselmo, and Michael Carter Parsons, 18, of 536 Belle Avenue, San Rafael, enlisted this week in the Navy at the San Rafael recruiting office.

Neubauer, a former Navy reservist and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl G. Neubauer, was sent to Treasure Island for classification and assignment. Parsons, son of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur C. Parsons, went to San Diego for recruit training before going to navy electronics school. Both enlisted for four years.

Sausalito Planners To Study Parking

Sausalito parking for voyagers to and from Angel Island State Park will be studied by the Sausalito Planning Commission, the commission decided Wednesday night.

Parking will become more and more important for those who wish to take public ferry or excursion boats to the island as it becomes a full-fledged park, said chairman Mel Wax. He appointed a committee of Robert Anthony, chairman, and Walter Thomson to make recommendations to the commission.

A second committee was appointed to study a new method of determining height limits for Sausalito buildings. Robert Nissen was made chairman and commissioners Eric Barnett and Victor Abrahamson, members.

First Trail Ride

The first trail ride of the Marin County Sheriff's Posse drew 38 members and their wives Sunday on a ride at the Freitas Ranch in Novato. The ride ended at the Tomohawk Lodge where breakfast was served.

Heroes Of 'Rainmaker' Are Backstage Crew

The "true heroes" of the Twin Cities Troupers production of "The Rainmaker," opening at 8 tonight at Henry Hall School, Larkspur, are "not those on stage but the production crew backstage," said business Manager Betty Widlund today.

"The Rainmaker" will show again at 8 p.m. tomorrow and Feb. 1, 2, 8, and 9.

"The backstage crew is headed by Lucile Schoenfeld of Ross who is acting as producer following her excellent work that made 'The Hasty Heart' production last year a memorable one," said Mrs. Widlund.

Bud Gutman of Ross, an interior decorator, designed the set, which actually is three sets in one. He was assisted in its construction by Robert Artegiani of Corte Madera.

"The lighting is particularly important," said Mrs. Widlund, "because the change of scenes is done only by the change of lights. Vern Wheeler of San Anselmo is in charge of lighting."

Other production members are Vivian Olds, properties; Vee Hall, costumes; Gloria Artegiani, publicity; and Jody White, makeup. Alma and Jamie Dinsmore, Barbara Vale and Vivian Olds were line coaches.

The Twin Cities Troupers are sponsored by the Larkspur-Corte Madera Recreation Commission. Tickets are available at the door at the multi-use room of the school.

Painting License

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — The Contractors' State License board has announced it will issue a painting and decorating contractors license to San Anselmo Paint Center, Inc. (Edward Louis Nordmann), 353 San Anselmo Avenue, San Anselmo, on or after Feb. 11, unless written protest is filed.

Sausalito Chamber To Hear Gambling Talk

Raymond I. Smith, part-owned and manager of Harold's Club in Reno, will discuss legalized gambling and tell of amusing incidents over his 26 years at Harold's at the annual membership meeting of the Sausalito Chamber of Commerce.

The meeting will be at 8 p.m. Monday, Feb. 4, in the Sausalito Cruising Club at the foot of Napa Street and Bridgeway.

"All members of the chamber, their employees, families and other interested in chamber activities are invited to attend," said Victor E. Hecht, executive secretary.

The board of directors will present a proposed amendment of the by-laws relating to election of officers and directors. It will also consider a plan to set up a "yardstick" of qualifications to be given to the city council for use in council appointment of planning commissioners.

Hecht will give a report of chamber activities over the past year, he said, as well as a behind the scene picture of the varied and unusual requests the chamber receives from the U.S. and abroad.

Rapid Transit System Delayed By 10 Months

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)— Construction of a Bay Area rapid transit system will be delayed about 10 months by a taxpayers' suit, the Bay Area Rapid Transit District's board of directors was told yesterday.

Wallace L. Kaapcke, general counsel for the district, made the estimate in discussing the suit attacking validity of the 792-million-dollar bond issue for the system.

"This will result in at least 12 million dollars in added inflation costs in constructing the system," Kaapcke said.

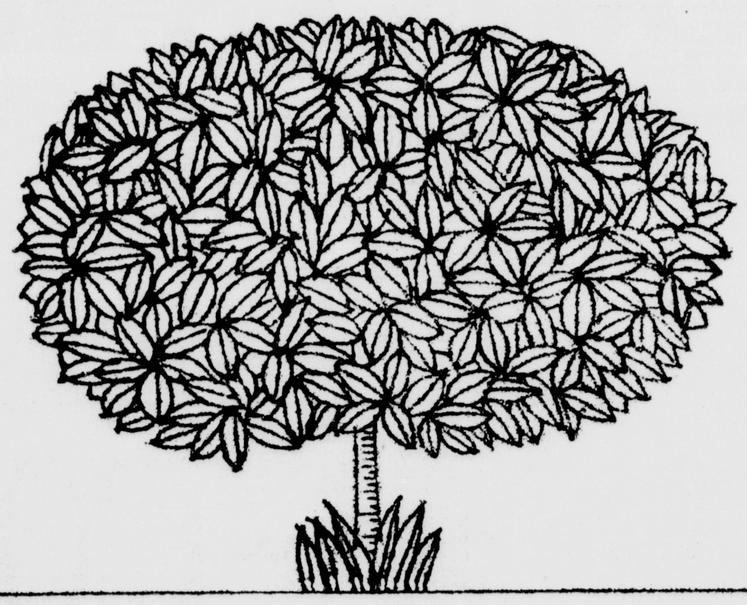

Keneth M. Hoover, chief engineer, informed the directors that three engineering firms had halted all their work on the system's design except on two freeways.

Adrien J. Falk, district president, said "the person who is going to pay for this delay is the taxpayer and nobody else."

THE TREES THAT DIDN'T BECOME POWER POLES

In the land of Lucas Valley there were many, many trees. They loved the hills, the creeks, the wonderful climate. But one day a man named Eichler said, "I'm going to build beautiful houses here." The trees became frightened. They thought, "We're going to be changed into ugly power poles with wires running through our branches." Mr. Eichler heard about their troubles. He made a decision. In a clear voice he said, "The trees will remain! All utilities will be underground. There will not be one power pole or wire anywhere in Lucas Valley." The trees were happy. Mr. Eichler was happy. Most important, the people about to live in Lucas Valley were happy. If you like trees instead of power poles, you'll be happy in an Eichler home at Lucas Valley.

New Bolinas Harbor, Park Group Urged

The Bolinas Park and Harbor Assn. may be reactived to assist the Bolinas Harbor District in development of Bolinas Lagoon as a harbor.

A call for the reforming of the association was voiced by 15 Stinson Beach and Bolinas citizens last night in an informal session following the regular Bolinas Harbor District board meeting.

It was announced yesterday that $6,200,000 has been requested of the state legislature for a small boat harbor at Bolinas. This has precipitated the need for reforming the association, said John R. Pepper, Bolinas Harbor District commissioner.

The association was deactivated in 1957 on formation of the harbor district. Purpose of the association, Pepper said, is to give the harbor district assistance in the harbor development. Thomas Tawns of Stinson Beach agreed to arrange for a meeting to get things started.

The harbor district board directed that a letter of thanks be sent to the State Small Craft Harbor Commission for its efforts to obtain funds. Clyde King sat on the board for the first time since being elected commissioner last November replacing Jack Lowe.

Paper Towel Practices Are Probed

An inference of improper practices in operation of the Golden Gate Bridge was all wrapped up in paper towels today.

Auditor Lee F. Lynch was questioned at length by director Dan London of San Francisco and board president Ben K. Lerer on a statement he started but did not finish at a meeting of the board as committee of the whole Wednesday. London insisted that Lynch finish his remarks regarding "any impropriety" of bridge management.

Lynch fenced with the meanings of words until Lerer insisted, "You are under an obligation to tell us all you can."

Then Lynch reluctantly said he referred to the purchase of $512.50 worth of paper towels last month. General Manager James Adam had asked the board to approve his purchase because the amount was $12.50 over the limit of $500 on purchases without board action.

Marin director Leland S. Murphy had insisted the towel purchase should be put out to bid. Lynch said complete honesty at that point should have made the general manager report that the towels already had been purchased, but Adam "went through the motions" of getting four bids.

London sarcastically called this "a heinous thing." Director Peter Gasser of Napa declared, "If we've got employees who think in nickles and dimes, we need some changes around here."

as pencils, paper and basketballs.

Parsons said the study indicated school supply salesmen might divide the state into areas, agreeing not to compete against each other in bids. But in other examples, one vendor sold the same supplies to different districts at different prices.

Los Angeles schools, for instance, paid seven cents for a gross of chalk, while Amador County schools paid $1.18 a gross for the same kind of chalk.

Prices for identical basketballs ranged from $4.20 to $9.30 each in different districts.

"Marin County's purchasing is, on the whole, outstanding," Parsons said. "I've studied it and there are some very good features."

All school districts in the county participate to some extent in centralized purchasing through the county school office, said Asst. Supt. Rudolph S. Kupfer. However, large districts purchase many of their own supplies.

The assembly subcommittee is reviewing purchasing practices of all state agencies with an eye to tighten laws relating to purchasing.

About 20 Marin school district superintendents and business managers attended yesterday's discussion, which was the fourth in a series of forums on school problems.

Weatherman Says Rain Is Unlikely

The weather bureau said today that rain in Marin County is unlikely within the next five days and that temperatures will remain near or just below normal.

Fog today closed the Marin County Airport early today but it was expected to open by noon. Planes at Hamilton Air Force Base were flying on instruments today but visual flight conditions were expected by noon.

OBITUARIES

Kenneth Taylor Dies At 53

Kenneth E. Taylor, 53, a partner in Taylor Brothers Sheet Rock Co. of Corte Madera, died yesterday in his home at 13 Mojave Court, Corte Madera, after a short illness.

A native of Wisconsin, Taylor had resided in Marin County for eight years. Before coming to the county, he had been in the contracting business in Anchorage, Alaska. He was a member of the Marin Rod and Gun Club and a veteran of World War II.

Taylor is survived by his wife, Jean Ann; two daughters and a son, Susan, Sarah and Kenny of Corte Madera; his mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Taylor of South San Francisco; three sisters and three brothers, Mrs. Catherine Lowery and Mrs. Helen Granis of Texas, Mrs. Mingon Borgos of Minnesota, Harold W. Taylor of Corte Madera, Lewis A. Taylor of Los Altos, and Ralph Taylor of Wisconsin.

Funeral services will be held tomorrow at 2:30 p.m. at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo. Interment will be private.

GEORGE WEIGAND

George W. Weigand, 34 Miramar Avenue, San Rafael, died today at a local hospital after a long illness. He was 75.

A native of Petaluma, he moved to Marin County 30 years ago. He worked as a gardener, postal employee, and was employed for a time by the Petaluma Poultry Producers Cooperative.

He is survived by his wife, Geraldine of San Rafael; a sister, Mary Mathiesen of Petaluma; a brother, Charles Weigand of Petaluma, and a half-brother, Frank Weigand of Paradise, Butte County.

Funeral services will be at 1 p.m. Monday at Keaton's Mortuary, San Rafael. Interment will be at Mt. Tamalpais Cemetery.

WINIFRED REES

Mrs. Winifred Annie Rees, 73, died in the home of her daughter, Mrs. Winifred R. Menges of 18 Greenfield Avenue, San Rafael, early today after an apparent heart attack.

An autopsy was to be performed today by the Marin County coroner's office to determine the exact cause of death. Funeral arrangements are pending at the Harry M. Williams Mortuary.

Mrs. Menges heard her mother make unusual noises in her bedroom at 1:30 a.m. and went in to find her lying still in bed. She had been under a doctor's care for heart trouble since she came to San Rafael from England in July, according to the coroner's report.

ROSE HOFFMAN

Private family funeral services for Mrs. Rose Ava Hoffman, 56, of Marshall, who died Wednesday night at her home after a short illness, were held today at Keaton's Mortuary in San Rafael.

Mrs. Hoffman was a native of Kansas. She is survived by her husband, Fred Wills Hoffman, and a son, David B. Hoffman. Inurnment was private.

CHARLES BRADFORD

Funeral services were scheduled in San Francisco today for Charles Bradford, 70, retired Fairfax machinist, who died in a San Francisco hospital Monday after a short illness.

Bradford leaves his wife, May, at the family home at 44 Geary Avenue, Fairfax. He also leaves a sister, Mrs. Elizabeth Cheda.

Last rites were held at Martin and Brown in San Francisco under auspices of Presidio Lodge 354, Free and Accepted Masons. Burial was in Golden Gate National Cemetery, San Bruno.

Bradford was a member of the Masonic lodge, Royal Arch Masons, Knights Templar, and Islam Temple.

A native of Nebraska, he had lived in California for 66 years.

PETER LARSEN

Funeral services were held yesterday for Capt. Peter Larsen, one of the last masters of the old windjammers that made up the great Pacific fishing fleet. He died at his home in Alameda Monday at the age of 88.

His survivors include a daughter, Katherin E. Martin of Sausalito.

Larsen, a native of Denmark, ran away to sea at the age of 14. He sailed to Africa and Australia and around Cape Horn and later joined the Klondike gold rush.

He found no gold, but he wound up building canneries and then sailing American fishing ships into the Bering Sea.

During World War II, he came out of retirement to become a pilot for the Army Transportation Corps.

He was past president of the Master Mariners Benevolent Assn., disbanded last year.

He is also survived by his wife, Millie; two sons, Robert and Irvin Larsen, and four grandchildren.

Quiet Beauty

for families of every faith

Ninety years ago, Marin pioneers set aside this lovely site as a final resting place for all faiths.

Since then, Mount Tamalpais has developed facilities to meet each family's preference. Here are lovely gardens, the Angeles Garden or Memory Chapel mausoleums for above-ground burial, Marin's modern new crematorium, and the Chapel of Light Columbarium.

If you haven't visited Mount Tamalpais, you are invited to see the beauty of its typically Marin setting. Our staff will be glad to answer your questions.

COLD CLINGS TO NATION, DEATH TOLL MOUNTS

Crop Damage Threatened In Southland

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Winter's longest and worst siege of cold weather slung to much of the nation today, causing a sharp rise in the death toll and threatening damage to crops in the Southland.

The huge cold air mass covered most of the country from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast. It knifed deep into the South, where lowest temperatures of the century were recorded in some areas yesterday.

SOME RELIEF

There was promise of moderating temperatures in some sections of the hard-hit midcontinent. But another stream of cold air headed from Canada into northern Midwest regions.

The coldest weather, with readings ranging from zero to 16 below, extended from northern Tennessee northeastward into the Northeast in the Upper Mississippi Valley, northern sections of the Middle Mississippi Valley and in most of the northern plains. Temperatures, generally, were not as low as yesterday morning, but were far below normal levels in many areas.

112 DEATHS

Since the outbreak of the current cold weather earlier this week at least 112 deaths have been reported from exposure, asphyxiation, over-exertion in snow, fires and in traffic accidents on ice-covered highways.

The bitter cold also has forced the closing of thousands of schools, the shutdown of some industrial plants and a slump in business. Travel by train, plane, bus and auto was disrupted.

Smudge pots were started in the citrus groves of Florida after forecasters predicted possible freezing weather. However, it appeared that the icy air would not extend into the rich Everglades farming area in the southern part of the state.

BOARD STIFF—Danny Kuhns, 8, of Breinigville, Pa., was home from school yesterday because of the sub-zero weather and had a little fun "helping" his mother with the laundry. He signaled from a snow-covered hilltop with a pair of his grandfather's "long johns," frozen solid with outstretched arms. (AP Wirephoto)

Northern Europe Due Slight Thaw In Freeze

LONDON (AP)—Europe's killer winter, which already has taken more than 200 lives, showed signs of slackening its grip on parts of northern Europe.

The southern fringes of the continent still reeled under storms, blizzards and intense cold that left a fresh trail of floods, wreckage and death from the Atlantic to the Black Sea.

Spain, Portugal, Italy, Greece, Yugoslavia, Turkey, Bulgaria and parts of the Soviet Union were hit as winter's fury concentrated on the south.

In Denmark, West Germany and Belgium, it was a little warmer. Britain, almost totally snowbound for more than a month, expected a slight thaw within 24 hours.

Britons continued to struggle with snow, ice, freezing fog, fuel shortages, cuts in electricity and gas, and thousands of burst water mains.

Authorities planned a 4,000-truck coal lift during the weekend to get fuel from pitheads to areas almost out of coal.

The death toll in Britain from the cold stood officially at more than 100.

Bahai Felix, Chile, has an average of 325 days a year in which it rains.

SACRAMENTO SUMMARY

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Legislation is introduced giving elementary schools until 1967 to institute mandatory foreign language training, instead of 1965.

California ended the past fiscal year with a 40.6-million-dollar surplus and a slight drop in costs of running state government, Controller Alan Cranston reports.

THE GOVERNOR

Appointed Alfred J. Stern of Palo Alto chairman of a committee to draft a compact for a joint California-Nevada park at Lake Tahoe.

THE SENATE

Bills introduced:

Labor — Liberalizes workmen's compensation benefits; SB 209-235, Regan (D-Weaverville).

Government — Forbids the merger of fire and police departments under a single department head; SB 240 (Regan).

Fireworks—Requires permit to set off fireworks in forest or brush land all year instead of between April 15th and Dec. 1; SB 242 (Regan).

Vehicles—Requires that emergency vehicles be equipped with approved safety belts; SB 243, Regan.

Water—Eliminates election requirement prior to acceptance of grant for water projects under Davis-Grunsky Act; SB 253, Grunsky (R-Watsonville).

Historical — Authorizes Department of Parks and Recreation to conduct archeological surveys on private and state lands and appropriates $30,000; SB 254-55, Rodda (D-Sacramento).

Education—Forbids driver training courses during regular academic day in secondary schools; SB 260 (Farr, D-Carmel).

Resolution introduced:

Parks—Directs Division of Beaches and Parks and San Francisco planning agencies to draft plan for use of Presidio of San Francisco; SCR 18, McAteer, (D-San Francisco).

THE ASSEMBLY

Bill passed:

Water—Makes technical changes in Orange County Water District Act; SB 1, Sen. Murdy, (R-Newport Beach).

Constitutional amendments introduced:

Schools—Lowers vote needed to pass local school bonds from two-thirds to simple majority; ACA 5, Rumford.

Reapportionment — Permits counties to be divided among Assembly districts; ACA 4, Mills, (D-San Diego).

Bills introduced:

Debt — Restricts right of creditors to collect debts through attachment of wages or suits to collect money owed on repossessed merchandise; AB 481-2, Foran (D-San Francisco).

Language — Gives State Board of Education the right to extend for two years the deadline for beginning of foreign language classes in elementary schools; AB 485, Porter (D-Compton).

Drugs—Requires that dangerous drugs in hospitals be opened to authorized inspection; AB 475, Kennick.

Elections — Tightens political campaign reporting requirements; AB 499, Winton (D-Merced).

Soft Sleeping

NEW YORK (UPI)—Shipments of latex foam mattress cores during the third quarter of 1962 were 43 per cent higher than in the first three months of that year.

Battle On Language Study Begins

SACRAMENTO (AP) — As of today, the law says that all sixth, seventh and eighth graders in California's elementary schools must start studying a foreign language in 1965.

The battle over that 1961 law—whether to repeal it, change it, delay it, or leave it alone—started in the legislature yesterday.

Assemblyman Carley V. Porter (D-Compton) introduced a bill to allow the State Board of Education to give schools until 1967 to start language classes, if they can satisfy the board that they need that long to find qualified teachers or the money to finance the instruction.

Porter's bill is just the first of many on the subject.

The board of education decided this month to propose that the deadline be extended for sixth grades only—and then only on a year-to-year basis, and in no case beyond 1970. Under the board's policy, a school could not qualify for an extension for financial reasons—only on grounds it couldn't find teachers.

If the idea of compulsory language classes weathers the storm, the present law is almost certain to get one change—extension to the seventh and eighth grades of junior high schools, as well as elementary schools.

Assemblyman Jack Casey (D-Bakersfield), author of the original bill, has said he will introduce legislation to do that, since his original intent was to include junior highs.

The board of education, wiht the backing of Superintendent of Public Instruction Max Rafferty, also proposes that special credentials be provided for persons who can speak a foreign language, but can't qualify for a full teaching credential.

Gov. Edmund G. Brown also has endorsed the compulsory language study law, and said that his proposal for a statewide educational television network would help solve the teaching problem.

California Winds Up Year In Black

SACRAMENTO (AP)—California wound up 40.6 million dollars in the black from fiscal 1962, but Controller Alan Cranston says he isn't sure how much of the surplus is due simply to accounting procedures.

He warned yesterday in his annual report of the fiscal year ending last June 30 that "We cannot presume . . . a reversal of the upward trend in cost of government."

Cranston said state income increased 4.8 per cent over the previous fiscal year to 2.45 billion dollars. It cost 2.41 billion to operate the state government in fiscal 1961-62.

Much of the reported surplus, a state finance official explained, came from the timing of some fund transfers. This meant some money spent last fiscal year shows up as expenses in future years—and not in the year it was spent.

Including a 370-million-dollar carryover from the 1960-61 fiscal year, he added, plus the 40.6-million-dollar surplus this year, the state will carry over 410.6 million dollars from the 1961-62 fiscal year.

Cranston's report showed that education again costs more than anything else, at 804.8 million dollars. Social welfare got 236 million dollars and public works were next at 220 million dollars.

McCarthy Says GOP Must Shape Positive Image For Its Future

By MORRIE LANDSBERG

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A massive campaign to shape a winning image of the Republican party in California was proposed today by state Sen. John F. McCarthy (R-San Rafael).

The Senate minority leader, known as a party moderate, drafted a series of resolutions for a meeting of the Republican State Central Committee this weekend. His declared objective:

"To present a Republican image which is not anti-labor, anti-welfare or anti-Negro; to show the voters that we are for things, not against them."

McCarthy said one of the reasons that Richard M. Nixon lost the governorship race was that he opened himself up to charges of being against everything.

"We have got to be positive," he said.

McCarthy said the Republican victory in the First Congressional District's special election last Tuesday will act as a morale builder. It will, he said, "indicate to Republicans that they can win if they put the show together the way we did."

He referred to an intensive GOP drive to get out the vote that helped put over the candidacy of Donald H. Clausen. Clausen succeeds a Democrat, the late Clem Miller, who was re-elected posthumously last November.

"The new image has to succeed," McCarthy said. "Otherwise the Republican party is not going to remain in existence."

The GOP is still in the process of picking up the pieces after two successive setbacks in the 1958 and 1962 state elections—both marked by bitter intraparty bickering.

That all is still not harmony is indicated in recent reports out of Southern California, in particular.

Shouts of "throw him out" greeted former Republican Gov. Goodwin J. Knight when he tried to speak at a county-wide GOP convention in Los Angeles a week ago.

Conservative elements have accused Nixon and others of trying to commit the state's Republicans to a Rockefeller-for-President movement.

And just yesterday, Harry J. Keating of Los Angeles, president of the California Young Republicans, said the John Birch Society is trying to take over the organization.

The State Central Committee meeting is keyed to the unity theme, however. Its leaders hope to work out a program of action to rejuvenate the party at meetings tomorrow and Sunday. County chairmen planned to huddle in advance today.

Wildlife Water Plans Are Urged

SACRAMENTO (AP) — California's fish and game director renewed today his proposal for plans to coordinate future water development with the needs of fish and wildlife.

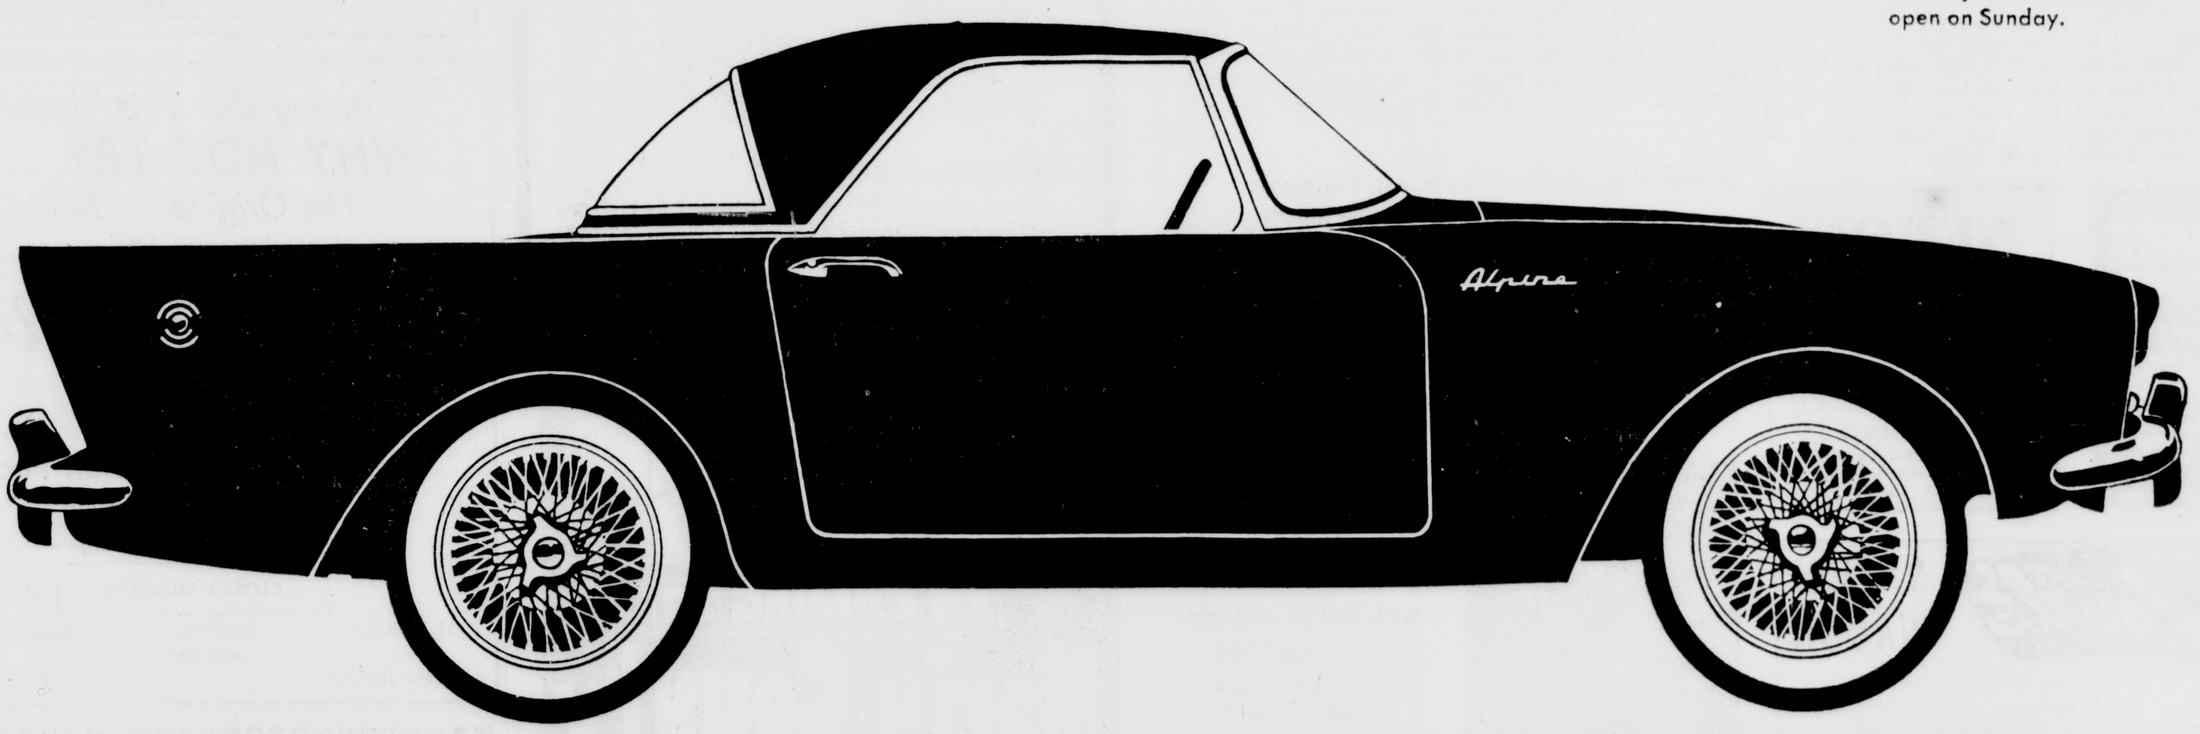

Director Walter T. Shannon, in his annual report to the State Fish and Game Commission, called for a statewide fish and game resource development plan, a research program to establish water needs and protection for stream flows to meet the needs.

Shannon said the department which is supported by license fees and a share of fines for fish and game violations, expects to have a balanced budget.

DINING OUT AND INNS

By HARRY CRAFT

Mission Inn May Be On The Old Fashion Side But Food Is Good

Around the turn of the century it used to be known as the New Europe Hotel, but not many people today remember it as that. For a good many years it's been the Mission Inn and it still stands at B Street near Second in San Rafael—one of those places a tourist wouldn't be likely to find unless someone told him about it.

But a good many Sonoma County people know about it and so do Marin businessmen.

It's on the old fashioned side and probably will be as long as it lasts. There never seemed to be much point in remodeling it, so it just stays the same—the main dining room in one section and the bar in another, with a few booths and a family or party room in the back.

Chappie Nardi and his wife Jerry, Jim Cassino and Hank Feidman hold forth in that area at various times and they're Chappie, Jerry, Jim and Hank to almost everyone who visits there.

The dining room serves both family-style and more elaborate dinners, and Leo Albertoni sees to it that the menu has a liberal choice of Italian dishes—ravioli, spaghetti, scallopini, saute sec, cacciatori and antipastos, salami and garlic bread if you want them. Steaks, of course—and the lunch steak is a good one. I'm particularly fond of their soups.

I suppose that someday, the way San Rafael is spreading out, someone will decide the corner is a good place for an office building, and then Mission Inn will be just a memory of one of the old landmarks.

Until then, it's on my list of good food spots.

DOMINIC'S HARBOR RESTAURANT, San Rafael, is now featuring a different European specialite de la maison each evening. Boeuf Bourguignonne, supremes de volailles a l'archiduc, sole Veronique and coquilles St. Jacques are among the entrees. In English those are: French beef ragout, breast of chicken with artichoke hearts, filet of sole with wine sauce and grapes and scallops French style.

Very popular with local lunch groups.

MARIN MUSICIAN and interior decorator Dick Saltzman and his trio are leaving Ginza's West in San Francisco to appear at the Country Club Bowl in San Rafael Friday and Saturday nights beginning Feb. 1 and 2.

Dick recently opened his own furniture and interior decorating establishment in Larkspur. The Marin booking gives him more time to spend on this side.

THE CALS, musical trio playing at Bermuda Palms on Wednesday, Friday and Saturday nights, were recently signed by Lodestone Records and their first number is out tomorrow. "Ocean Waves," a blues piece, and "Country Woman" rock 'n' roll are the selections recorded (seems to me Ocean Waves should be rock 'n' roll, too).

These are local boys—Johnny Allair at organ and piano and doing the vocals; Doug Cox on guitar and bass; Pete Lind Jr. at the drums—a "no leader" band. They've signed a contract for three records to come out this year.

MONDAY NIGHT'S "A Night with the Stars" benefit dinner for the March of Dimes at Sabella's is bound to feature a generous supply of good entertainers from San Francisco night clubs, radio and television. "Wild Bill" Hickok, disc jockey from KFRC will emcee the program and at least 15 acts are anticipated—possibly some members of the Tennessee Ernie Ford show.

At $10 per plate for dinner and entertainment you can't go wrong. You'd pay that much in the city. And all the money goes to the March of Dimes. Sabella's turns over the entire proceeds; employees donate their time and tips.

EUGENE'S has received its wine license. Eugene Lackenbach is making up his wine list and new menu. It may be a couple of weeks before he figures out what wines he's going to stock.

THE FIRE at Deer Park Villa Wednesday morning which burned out the kitchen will close everything down for about three weeks. But work has already started on repairs and the Ghiringhellis hope to put on their 25th anniversary party originally scheduled for this weekend shortly after reopening.

Meanwhile a number of the records on pending reservations were burned in the fire. Obviously any of them made for the next three weeks will have to be called off. Those for later dates (some went clear into April) should be placed again.

RECORDING STARS — The Cals, playing at the Bermuda Palms, are now recording stars. They are (from left) Doug Cox, Pete Lind Jr. and Johnny Allair.

Adult Program Teacher Pay Raise Is Put Off

The Marin Junior College District last night put off a $1 an hour pay raise for adult education instructors until the summer session.

The board indicated that, if further study showed that the raise from $5.50 to $6.50 an hour was desirable, it would be included in the budget for next fiscal year.

Dr. Ellsworth R. Briggs, dean of the night school, said his instructors "would feel it pretty deeply" if the board took no action on the proposal, as the fulltime teachers of regular college courses had a raise effective Jan. 1. He said the raise would place the teachers slightly above the state average.

Trustee George G. Washburn said the adult school should be made self-supporting. It was reported the college pays about $100,000 toward the program.

Washburn said, "I don't believe in education from the cradle to the grave. It hurts me to pay taxes for someone to take a course who has a much larger income than me."

He added, "I was elected to represent the taxpayers, not someone who comes here to take up sculpture."

Mrs. Elizabeth M. Deedy, president, called Washburn's statements a "divergence of philosophy" and not pertinent to the discussion at hand.

Students Present $101 To CARE

A $101.50 check from pupils of Neil Cummins School, Corte Madera, was presented to CARE yesterday afternoon at an assembly in the school's multi-use room.

The money was raised from contributions of pupils of the fourth through eighth grades and presented by Paula Anderson, student council president, and Mary Elliott, treasurer, to Thomas Perry of San Francisco, regional director for CARE.

Justice To Talk At Bar Dinner

Ben C. Duniway, justice of the U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals, San Francisco, will speak at the annual dinner meeting of the Marin County Bar Assn. at Peacock Gap tomorrow night.

Arthur Lebow of Mill Valley will be installed as president, replacing S. J. Hugh Allen of San Rafael. Others taking office are Peter Allen Smith, vice president; Howard Morehouse, secretary, and Charles Pierce, treasurer.

President of the California Bar Assn. William Gray will be one of the honored guests.

Cocktails will be served at 7 p.m., the dinner at 8 p.m.

Indefinite Stay Given To Goldston

Charles James Golston, 21, scheduled to die in the San Quentin gas chamber today for the rape murder of a 79-year-old Long Beach woman, was granted an indefinite stay of execution by Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas at 2:30 p.m. yesterday.

Golston had filed a writ with the high court asking a review of his case. No new execution date will be set until after the case has been reviewed.

Golston was convicted of killing Mrs. Dora Cutting on Aug. 28, 1961. His stay was granted before his transfer from Death Row to the small cell adjacent to the gas chamber. This transfer is usually made at 4 p.m. on the day before execution, said Associate Warden Dale B. Frady.

Longevity Hint

STANTON, Mo. (UPI) — A safety sign at the 100 million-year-old Meramec Caverns here says: "Drive Carefully Or You'll Never Reach Our Age."

Iva Asked Of Antics —Smiles

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Iva Kroeger, wearing a mysterious smile, left court in an apparently happy mood yesterday after being restrained by bailiffs from reaching a blackboard during her trial for two murders.

Mrs. Kroeger beamed a broader smile when newsmen asked her what her courtroom antics were all about.

Twice during yesterday's session she tried to reach the courtroom's blackboard, grabbing for the chalk, and was subdued by bailiffs. She settled down when the chalk was removed.

MURDER CHARGE

The 41-year-old grandmother and her 61-year-old hod carrier husband, Ralph, are charged with murdering Mr. and Mrs. Jay Arneson to gain control of their Santa Rosa motel.

Prosecution claims that the Kroegers were attempting to sell the motel for $72,000 last August when Arnesons' bodies were uncovered in the basement of the Kroeger home in San Francisco. Both Mildred Arneson, 58, and her husband, 70, had been strangled to death, police have testified.

Witnesses testified yesterday that Mrs. Kroeger cashed hundreds of dollars in traveler's checks purchased by Mrs. Arneson. She forged Mrs. Arneson's name, the prosecution claims.

INSANITY PLEA

Mrs. Kroeger has pleaded innocent and innocent by reason of insanity. Her taciturn husband has entered a plea of innocent.

Two salesmen identified Mrs. Kroeger as the woman who cashed $900 in travelers checks in December, 1961, to buy supplies for the motel. The purchases included plastic mattress covers similar to the ones that shrouded the body of Mrs. Arneson in the basement grave.

Mrs. Kroeger, who became angry during the trial earlier this week, was all smiles yesterday. At one point she informed the court loudly, "I've never seen her before" when a woman testified she cashed checks for Mrs. Kroeger under Mrs. Arneson's name.

At another time she called to the prosecution attorney: "Can you move aside so I can see."

Bridge Engineer Needs Permission

If a New York engineer is employed to make advanced studies for a second deck on the Golden Gate Bridge, he's going to have to obtain state permission, the attorney general said today.

In an opinion requested by Arthur Flaherty, executive secretary of the State Board of Registration For Civil and Professional Engineers, Atty. Gen. Stanley Mosk ruled an out-of-state engineer must obtain either temporary or permanent registration.

"An unregistered non-resident engineer not having a regular place of business in California may offer to practice engineering in California, but actual practice requires registration," Mosk ruled.

The matter came up because directors of the Golden Gate Bridge have discussed with O. H. Ammann of New York City, the possibilities of making definite studies of a second vehicular deck on the bridge. Ammann was one of the engineering consultants on the bridge originally and served on the recent three-man engineering review board which found the bridge unable to support rapid transit trains. There had been some question after the three-man board report as to whether the trio should not have been registered in the state at that time.

"Since the structure is located in California and used by members of the public in California, the safety, health and welfare of such persons would be directly affected, and registration by the state board would be required of anyone performing such a study," Mosk ruled.

In addition to paying a fee for a 60 day permit, any out-of-state engineer must be legally qualified to practice in his own state. He also must demonstrate "by individual appearance before the California state board" satisfactory evidence of his engineering knowledge. The permit may be extended to a maximum of 120 days.

State To Reconstruct Angel Island Pier

The state will reconstruct the pier and small-boat facilities at Angel Island this year at a cost of $111,659.

That amount has been allocated for the job by the state, Sen. J. Eugene McAteer (D-San Francisco) announced yesterday.

The pier, located at Hospital Cove on the lee side of the island, is more than 50 years old. McAteer said the reconstruction, expected to be completed in December, would greatly improve facilities for small boats and launches.

"This is the beginning of an extensive program by the Division of Beaches and Parks to make Angel Island into a magnificent recreational spot," said Senator McAteer.

The Interior Department recently turned over 517 acres of Angel Island to the state, tripling the size of the state park. The Division of Beaches and Parks has operated a 220-acre facility there since 1955.

Only three small Coast Guard installations will remain in federal control, said McAteer.

Audubon Nova Scotia Film Planned Sunday

A film showing travel through the wooded areas of Nova Scotia will be shown by the Marin Audubon Society at 3 and at 8 p.m. Sunday in Olney Hall at College of Marin.

The color film was taken by Robert C. Hermes. It shows the travel from the source of a stream to the sea. He used time lapse photography in many cases in shooting the sea life.

'NOW HEAR THIS' — Mucho, an Alexandria, Va., police dog, listens to commands broadcast over a walkie-talkie held by his master, Pvt. Eugene Yoakum. (AP Wirephoto)

CALLING ALL DOGS!

Canine Gets His Orders From Walkie-Talkie And Obeys Them

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP)— Mucho is a dog of the electronic age. He can take his commands (and obey them) from a walkie-talkie on his harness.

It was obvious today that Mucho, with the antenna sticking up from his side, loved this electronic business.

"He knows he's pleasing—he knows it," Pvt. Eugene Yoakum of the Alexandria Police Department said.

Yoakum put Mucho through his paces, standing about 40 feet away, and giving the commands into a walkie talkie in his hand. The receiving set and antenna were attached to the harness of the big black and tan German shepherd.

"Down," Yoakum said into the walkie-talkie. Mucho's ears pricked up, and down the dog went. The dog came, sat and bounded away, all at commands heard on his radio, and he performed with gusto.

It started last summer. Mucho, almost 4, had been in the Police K-9 Corps a little over two years. He rode often on the back seat of a patrol car with Yoakum, his master, and Sgt. Cecil Kesler.

The two policemen noticed that when their car K-9-1, was called on the police radio, Mucho got all excited, but didn't pay any attention when he heard the noise of other cars being called.

The policemen thought perhaps Mucho noticed when they leaned over to pick up the receiver when their car was called. They arranged with the dispatcher to call them, and they just sat there without noticing.

But in the back seat, Mucho jumped when he heard "K-9-1," stood up and jumped up and down, raring to go — his car had been called.

Yoakum then started working with Mucho and a walkie talkie in his spare time.

"It's something we're playing around with—never used it on a job," Yoakum said. "We didn't know such a fuss would be raised about it. I think we'll perfect it now."

Hallinan: Where Is Heaven?

Written memoranda on such points as the whereabouts of Heaven and Hell, if anywhere, were being prepared for a San Francisco Superior Court judge today by attorneys Vincent Hallinan of Belvedere and Andrew F. Burke as representative of Catholic Archbishop Joseph T. McGucken.

After considering the briefs Judge Byron Arnold will decide whether the archbishop must answer queries of Hallinan, self-proclaimed "roaring atheist," designed to bring out whether the church had misrepresented what it could deliver to the late David F. Supple in the way of salvation.

TRYING TO LURE

Burke declared that Hallinan was just trying to lure the archbishop into positions he'd then attempt to prove false, and said U.S. Supreme Court decisions protect against court review of the truthfulness of beliefs.

Supple left $175,966 to 35 Catholic institutions when he died at 81 in 1961.

Agents of the Roman Catholic Church, Hallinan contends, induced Supple to make these bequests on the theory that they'd buy him a sort of divine passport.

As a preliminary step in his suit testing the will, Hallinan submitted an interrogative to the archbishop, who has refused to answer such questions as whether it is church doctrine that Elijah ascended to Heaven in a fiery chariot.

ANSWER REQUIRED?

The present hearing, now at a stage where Hallinan has five days to prepare a supporting brief and Burke has 10 days for reply, centers on whether the court should require the archbishop to answer.

Hallinan said his son Terence (Kayo) has bought whatever interest might be established on behalf of a Supple grandnephew who got nothing in the will.

Against Hallinan's queries as to the precise locations of Heaven and Hell, Burke said yesterday that "these are not material places."

Hallinan said "we can believe anything we want, but we cannot use that belief to defraud people." Burke's contention was that both California and federal constitutions "prevent courts from sitting in judgment on religious beliefs."

HATFUL OF AIR SAVES WORKER BURIED IN EARTH

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A workman, buried 15 minutes under four feet of earth, saved his life with a hatful of air.

Leonard Murillo, 39, was working at the bottom of a flood-control trench yesterday when co-workers yelled that the side was collapsing.

Murillo pressed himself against the opposite side of the ditch and clapped his hard metal hat over his mouth.

A dozen men dug Murillo out and firemen administered oxygen. Murillo was shaken but otherwise appeared unharmed.

He took the rest of the day off.

Miller Files Are Offered To Clausen

The late Rep. Clem Miller's files on projects pending or planned for the First Congressional District have been offered to Rep.-Elect Donald H. Clausen.

William F. Grader, Miller's field representative and the man Clausen defeated in Tuesday's election, wrote the new congressman that "Mrs. Katharine Miller has authorized me to offer to turn over to you files of Congressman Miller's office which concern current and future legislation and projects of value to the future of the district."

Grader complained that when Miller took over the office, the files of the retiring Rep. Hubert E. Scudder were refused him.

However, personal files involving individual constituents will be turned over to Clausen, Grader said, "only at their request also."

Subdivision Approved For Corte Madera

A tentative subdivision map for two business buildings planned by developer Fred R. Sanford between Tamalpais and Meadowsweet drives was unanimously approved last night at an adjourned meeting of the Corte Madera Planning Commission.

The map was submitted by architect J. Carson Bowler. The buildings, east and west of a Bank of America branch now being built, will help constitute a $500,000 new business area.

Home Builders Install Two Marinites

Two Marin men were among new officers of the San Francisco and Marin division of Associated Home Builders installed last night at a meeting in Del Webb's Town House, San Francisco.

The new panel, headed by Norman V. Cole of Millbrae as president, includes Donald H. Stoneson of San Francisco as vice president, Carl Brown of San Rafael as executive vice president, John L. Novak of Novato as treasurer, and Richard F. Elam of Westwood Homes (San Francisco and Novato) as secretary.

Brown was recently appointed executive vice president to succeed Richard E. Doyle who had resigned. He also holds the post of secretary-manager at the San Rafael office and divides his time between Marin and San Francisco.

Installing officer was William Blackfield, recently elected vice president of the National Assn. of Home Builders.

New Citizen Joins Civil Air Patrol

Chile-born Hank Eggers of Novato has at last joined Marin Squadron 4 of the Civil Air Patrol as a result of achieving American citizenship. He has been assigned, moreover, as squadron safety officer.

Eggers learned to fly as a cadet pilot with the Chilean Air Force, later joined the Aero Club of Chile, and holds both private and commercial license. He tried to join the Marin group a year ago after moving to Novato but failed to meet a citizenship requirement.

Following his recent naturalization Eggers re-applied at the next patrol meeting and was promptly accepted.

Cost Of Living Drops, But Sharp Rise Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The cost of living registered its sharpest monthly dip in four years in December, mainly because of lower food prices. But cold weather is expected to send food costs up again this month.

This was reported today by Robert J. Myers, deputy commissioner of the Bureau of Labor Statistics. He said the December drop of two-tenths of 1 per cent was the greatest monthly decline since 1958 in the department's consumer price index.

Myers said the December decline was twice as sharp as the usual drop for the month. This trimmed the price to 105.8 per cent of the 1957-59 average both for December and for the year as a whole.

The commissioner said the hard freezes, particularly in the South and the Southwest, were expected to cause a "substantial jump" in food prices during January.

He indicated this meant the over-all cost of living probably would rise about two-tenths of 1 per cent, or back to the November level of 106 per cent.

Food prices fell six-tenths of 1 per cent in December. This was due largely to substantial reductions in prices of fresh fruits, poultry and pork before effects of harsh freezes were felt.

Oranges dropped 13.5 per cent because of earlier prospects for good production. Myers said they now are expected to rise sharply because of recent severe freezes in Florida.

The over-all price index last month was three-tenths of 1 per cent below the all-time high reached last September. The food price section, at 103.5, was 1.2 per cent below the September peak but 1.5 per cent higher than in December, 1961.

Myers said in this connection that the United States "has had rather substantial success in dealing with inflation." He said U.S. prices had risen only 4.6 per cent over the past four calendar years and only 13 per cent since 1953.

By contrast, he said, prices rose 43 per cent in France, 30 per cent in Britain, 28 per cent in Japan, 23 per cent for both Italy and India, 17 per cent for Germany and 13 per cent for Canada.

Prices of items other than food were unchanged in December. An average decline of one-tenth of 1 per cent for non-food commodities was offset by a continuing upward movement in services.

Students 'Adopt' Vietnamese Child

Students at Vallecito in Terra Linda will financially "adopt" a Vietnamese child for one year, the student council announced yesterday.

The students will pay a total of $180 during the one-year "adoption" of the 9-year-old girl.

The child is Chung Muoi, who lives with her mother, two brothers and a sister. Their father is dead. The mother supports the family by making and peddling rice cakes.

Muoi says she wants to be a teacher when she grows up.

Courthouse Parking Should Be For Public, Not Workers

It seems to us that the Marin Board of Supervisors has acted in a capricious and casual manner in its unconditional surrender to chaos at the County Courthouse parking lot.

Decision of the supervisors is that the west parking lot at the Courthouse should be operated on a "catch as catch can basis for county employees."

Why should county employees, other than those who need their cars to perform their duties, be provided with parking space at all, much less on a "catch as catch can" basis?

What about the general public wishing to do business with the county offices? What about the county's citizens called to do their civic duty as jurors or witnesses in court cases? Shouldn't they have preference to county employees?

We certainly think they should.

In addition, it would be a fine courtesy to have some of the parking spaces marked for out-of-state cars only. This would be a real service to tourists visiting in San Rafael to see St. Raphael's Mission and other attractions.

We know that the west parking lot has been a headache to the supervisors ever since the courthouse was first remodeled 15 or 16 years ago. But we don't think they will solve it by throwing up their hands and letting the county workers run over them.

If the county insists on providing parking space as a sort of bonus to county employees, maybe the supervisors could rent an unused part of the PG&E property down on Third Street for this purpose.

But the prime parking area, convenient to the courthouse should be used for coming and goings, not for dead storage of automobiles eight hours a day.

We hope the supervisors reconsider.

Everybody's Birthday

Chinese the world over are celebrating their traditional New Year — the Year of the Rabbit — today.

Among old-school Chinese—even in Marin County—in addition to all the other fireworks and religious celebrations, Chinese New Year is Everybody's Birthday. Every man, woman and child counts himself a year older starting this day.

The Year of the Rabbit (or Hare if you prefer) should be a peaceful year, but we will guess it will be a bad one from the point of view of those who are frightened by the world population explosion.

MANY DECISIONS FOR DRIVERS

Did you know that motorists have to make about 20 decisions for each mile they drive?

According to a Colorado Highway Patrol report, even skilled drivers will occasionally be guilty of a major or minor error in judgment.

For every 250 mistakes, the survey pointed out, there was one near-collision. And for every 122 near-collisions, there was one actual smash-up.

While the citing of statistics may give the impression that accidents are inevitable, nothing could be farther from the truth.

Even if you never get behind the wheel of a car, you have to make decisions every day that will affect you and others for better or worse.

Intelligent planning and due consideration for the rights of your neighbor will go a long way toward keeping your decisions on the right track.

By thus keeping your eyes open and "on the road" you will never have cause for regret.

"Use all care to present yourself to God as a man approved, a worker who cannot be ashamed." (2 Timothy 2:15)

Strengthen me, O Holy Spirt, not only to do the right thing, but also to do it for the right reason.

Most Of Life's Real Pleasures Come From Moments Small Joys

NEW YORK (AP)—Sidewalk comments by a pavement Plato:

Most of the real pleasure of living comes from small joys that give you a big moment.

Such as:

Getting an abject apology from a bank after they make a 27-cent clerical error in your savings account. Taking your shoes off at home after a hard day of holding your feet up on an office desk. Opening a neighbor's letter by mistake and finding it's a love note from one of his old girl friends.

Finally paying off a 30-year mortgage on the house—before the roof falls in. Discovering the dentist wasn't lying when he told you that you could still enjoy corn on the cob with the new store teeth he installed. Having your veterinarian inform you, "No, this time your cat isn't going to have kittens. She simply needs to go on a diet."

Turning on a radio and hearing something by Mozart instead of a rock 'n' roll record. Finding that you can again wear size 38 shorts instead of size 40. Reading a poem by Emily Dickinson.

Meeting a former high school classmate who was voted "Boy most likely to succeed" and finding out you are making $12 more a week than he is.

Watching children catch fireflies in a milk bottle on a summer night. Waking up before dawn and worrying because you can't think of a single thing to feel guilty about. Having your wife give you an unexpected bit of praise, such as, "No other husband in the block carries out the garbage in quite the manly way you do, dear."

Saying goodby to someone you love and hello to someone you are really happy to see. Hearing your daughter introduce you to a playmate —"And this is MY daddy, Judy"—in a tone that makes you feel like royalty. Having the same freckle-faced bundle of mortality inform you she got a grade of 100 on her spelling test, or point out the Big Dipper in the sky to you, as if you had never in your lifetime seen it before.

WAITING FOR the alarm clock to go off—and then realizing it's the first day of your vacation. Testing the first strawberries of the season, and knowing it won't be too long before the watermelons will be ripe, too.

Being invited to the boss's home for dinner and finding they pick up chicken in their hands and eat it just like everybody else.

THANKING GOD there has been no death in your immediate family for more than a quarter of a century.

Of such moments are our life's real joys made. They add up to the true glory of human experience.

Highest Taxed Town Of Marin

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

The Lagoon Number Two Association expresses its appreciation for Mr. Fred Wyatt's objective and thorough reporting of the problems existing in Madera Gardens, on and near Lagoon Number Two.

Furthermore, by permitting the article front page position you have again demonstrated your keen awareness of what constitutes news, and more important, a recognition of Marin's citizenry attempts through legitimate channels, to appeal its position for public acceptance or rejection.

We as an association do not expect, and moreover reject, special concessions, but as residents living in the highest taxed town in Marin, we do expect amelioration of problems which sensible and omniscient government will provide.

Blind Teacher Deserves His Job

EDITOR,
Independent-Journal:

I have mailed the following letter:
Board of Education,
San Rafael

I am writing this letter on behalf of Fletcher Hicks. I believe this is the most unjust action I have ever seen taken by a person I have always considered a fair and reasonable principal. I now have my doubts.

I have a son in Mr. Hicks' English class which Mr. Thompson visited. If Mr. Thompson hadn't been called out of this class the next day, he would have witnessed a most enthusiastic and interesting discussion on the reading of the previous day, "Ethan Brand" by Nathaniel Hawthorne.

When my wife attended "San Rafael back-to-school" night, of all the teachers she visited Mr. Hicks was by far the most dedicated and impressed her with his ability more than any of the other teachers.

I am an alumni of San Rafael High School and I am interested in keeping it at a high scholastic level. I cannot understand accepting the resignation of one of the most liked and dedicated teachers at the school, when good teachers are hard to find.

We have two children in San Rafael High School at this time and among all their friends we have heard nothing but good about Mr. Hicks. They all say he is the best English teacher they have ever had.

We believe that if the Board of Education made a thorough study of this situation, they would not accept this resignation. Some action should be taken to prevent situations like this from happening again.

Charles Howard Allen was installed as president of the Marin County Real Estate Board.

Sheriff Walter B. Sellmer said he'd used commissions from vending machines in his office for charity and as a petty cash fund. Dist. Atty. William O. Weissich pointed to law requiring use of such funds "solely for the benefit, education and welfare of inmates within the jail."

Major structural changes in the Golden Gate Bridge, estimated to cost three and one-half million dollars, were recommended by a consulting engineer board as means of stiffening its resistance to such gales as the 69-mile-an-hour wind of Dec. 1, 1951, which caused $80,000 damage.

TRY AND STOP ME

BENNETT CERF

A husband who was not exactly masterly when his wife was around came home at about 4:00 a.m. one time to receive the tongue-lashing he expected. "Fine hour to sneak in," shrilled his wife. "I suppose you're going to give me that old routine about being out somewhere holding a sick friend's hand."

"My dear," said the husband sadly, "if I had been holding his hand, we'd be considerably wealthier today."

At the Hillcrest Country Club in Beverly Hills, the afternoon bridge games are taken very seriously. George Burns tells of one hand where he and his partner bid seven spades, vulnerable. One of their opponents had recently recovered from a heart attack. After some deliberation, he took out a nitroglycerin tablet, placed it under his tongue, looked at his cards again, and said with a deep sigh, "I double."

In Miami Beach, Hotel Impresario Ben Novack asked an 8-year-old visitor whether he planned to swim in the pool or the ocean. "The pool," said the boy firmly. "The ocean's too tall for me."

IJ REPORTER'S NOTEBOOK

By BRYCE W. ANDERSON

Why The Difference Between City Council, School Board Meetings?

The City Council of San Rafael governs a city of 24,000 people. It consists of five members. It meets regularly twice each month, and sometimes holds extra meetings.

At a typical council meeting, there will be 25 to 30 persons in front of the rail that separates the audience from the council and its aides. Four or five of the audience will be city employees.

MOST OF THE others will be there because some matter of personal concern to them is to be discussed: an appeal from a planning commission decision, an assessment district, a drainage problem, etc. As these matters are disposed of, the crowd will dwindle. By adjournment (usually between 11 p.m. and midnight) the number outside the "official family" remaining in the hall is usually below a dozen.

This scarcely evidences tremendous public interest in the local government.

But stay awhile!

SAN RAFAEL BOARD of Education governs two school districts. The San Rafael Elementary School District has roughly the same population as the city. The San Rafael High School District includes all this plus the Dixie and San Jose Elementary School Districts—a wide area with total population of somewhere near 50,000, or about twice the population of the city.

The board consists of five members. It meets regularly twice each month, and sometimes holds extra meetings.

At a typical board meeting, the audience is composed largely of school administrators, consultants and teachers. Average "outside" representation is from six to 10.

Usually, these few do not appear to be present because of matters of vital personal concern to them. Mostly, they just listen. They stay through the meeting, which usually ends before 10:30.

The typical city council meeting (this is true generally, not just in San Rafael) is a give-and-take affair. People in the audience are likely to have a few things to say—and to say them in pretty blunt language. The mayor and councilmen are not given to mincing words, either. Rough camaraderie is the rule; red-faced, rail-pounding argument is no rarity.

In this atmosphere, laws are passed, policies laid down, and neighborhood rows accorded Solomon-like judgment.

THE TYPICAL school board meeting (this also, is true generally) is a much less spirited performance. Most of the discussion is among board members and superintendent. When someone in the audience rises to speak, he generally does so deferentially. He is (with rare exceptions) much easier to silence than the embattled citizen addressing his city council.

There is little of the "town meeting" atmosphere.

WHY THE DIFFERENCE?

I asked this question of a number of people. I got, as expected, a variety of answers. But there were several answers that recurred repeatedly. Among them were these:

"The school people talk in a jargon I can't understand."

"If I ask questions, I am made to feel foolish."

"I don't want to be insulted."

"I'd rather take my problems to the superintendent in private."

And frequently, another reason that may be a sort of summing up of those already quoted:

"I tried going to board meetings but gave it up. The board doesn't want to hear from anybody except the school people."

ROSCOE DRUMMOND

Russia May Now Be Willing To Accept Inspections For Test Ban

WASHINGTON—A strong case can be made that the Soviet Union is now willing to accept sufficient inspection to permit a total ban on nuclear testing.

The upshot of the recent exchange of letters between Premier Khrushchev and President Kennedy is that, while Khrushchev has kept his hand on the door leading to agreement so that he can still close it tight, he can also open it still wider.

THE FAVORABLE factors are these:

1—Khrushchev took the initiative to appeal directly to Kennedy to re-open the stalled test-ban negotiations.

2—He accepted the principle of on-site inspection to protect against possible violation.

3—He met our offer to reduce on-site inspections from as many as 17 to 12 annually by offering 2 to 3 on-site inspections annually.

4—He agreed to the President's suggestion for an immediate meeting of the experts prior to the reconvening of the 17-nation disarmament commission in Geneva.

5—The tone of the Soviet Premier's two letters to the White House is cordial, the mood flexible.

THIS IS MOVEMENT away from stalemate. It is diplomatic movement of great potential. It suggests that for reasons persuasive to the Kremlin — whether the confrontation in Cuba, the deteriorating relations with Red China, the peril of nuclear war, or all three—Khrushchev may be ready "to bite the bullet of inspection," as Walt Rostow has put it, and join in a verifiable treaty.

Khrushchev's present position falls short of an inspection which would satisfy Britain and the United States as effective and, even then, he leaves himself avenues of retreat.

1 — Khrushchev suggests that Mr. Kennedy's only concern over on-site inspection stems from domestic politics, that he has something that at least looks like inspection to sell the treaty to the Senate.

2—The number of on-site inspections to determine whether an unexplained explosion is an earthquake or a test-quake will have to be increased beyond three yearly to provide a minimum of verification.

3—Khrushchev, too vague on some points, is too precise as to where on-site inspections should be allowed. He proposes to designate them in advance.

4—KHRUSHCHEV FAIRLY argues that full precaution must be taken to protect military security from international inspectors proceeding to the site of inspection. Even in the area of inspection there might be "some object of defense importance" which would have to be closed off. This is too vague to be acceptable.

These are the most critical issues left unresolved in the Khrushchev letters to President Kennedy. They may be resolved by further negotiation, but they leave Khrushchev with large opportunities to talk test-ban, but in the end maneuver away from it.

This Baby Is Kept In Glass Box —Sound-Proof And Germ Free

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Not many girls of Kelly Farrell's age live in a glass paneled box complete with soundproofing and temperature controls.

Kelly's parents are Mary and Walt Farrell, University of Miami psychology majors. They feel it's all for Kelly's good. She is one week old.

"In an age when Americans are using color television, automatic dishwashers and other complex gadgets, they are still raising their children like frontier people," said the father, 23.

The big, box-like crib is germ-free and maintains an even 80-degree temperature. Kelly is expected to use the crib for two years.

Even her diapers don't have to be changed as often, says the mother, 17, who started college at 14. Moisture drains through Kelly's plastic, blanketless sleeping surface into a pan underneath the crib.

The young parents say they purchased the bed over friends' objections.

"We take the baby out for feeding, to play with and for most of the other reasons people take their babies out of cribs," they added.

Mary and Walt chose the crib because they say it is climate controlled and comfortable, safe, with no fears the baby could smother, and partially soundproof cutting noise down for baby, not to mention the parents and the neighbors.

Rafferty Seeing Student Group

Four Redwood High School students were today asking California's new state superintendent of schools at Sacramento about changes he intends to make. Their special area of curiosity is naturally the high schools.

Interviewers were Toni Banducci, Lynn Diamond, Gary Artoux and Dave Tucker, all members of the staff of the student newspaper Redwood Bark. Accompanying them were the paper's photographer Tim Ingham who will illustrate a composite interview to appear Feb. 15.

Selection of the interviewers, all juniors, was from journalism classes which submitted questions to be put to Dr. Maxwell Rafferty.

Judge Haley To Sit In Superior Court

Judge Harold J. Haley, presiding judge of Marin Municipal Court, will be sitting in superior court during February and March to help clear up the backlog of cases in the higher court.

The State Judicial Council assigned Judge Haley to act as superior court judge for the next two months. Judges Leonard A. Thomas and Joseph G. Wilson will handle all cases in municipal court.

Two Boys Caught In Stolen Car

Two boys from Tamalpais High School, aged 14 and 15, were caught yesterday afternoon in a stolen car which had run out of gas on Tennessee Valley Road near Marin Avenue.

The car disappeared from the home of John W. Polacchi of 29 Shell Road, Mill Valley, on Wednesday night.

About 2:45 p.m. yesterday, Deputy Sheriff George Reuss spotted Polacchi's car parked on Tennessee Valley Road. The 14-year-old was sitting behind the wheel and the 15-year-old standing beside the car.

The boys at first told Reuss they were merely trying out the car radio, but later admitted they had cut classes and had decided to take the car for a spin. They were pushing the car because it was out of gas.

The younger boy, the driver, was booked at Marin Juvenile Hall, and the other cited to appear before Juvenile Officer Harvey E. Teague next Tuesday.

Car Is Stolen In San Rafael

A car belonging to Guy Alden Reem of 345 G Street, San Rafael, was stolen yesterday from in front of 1615 Fifth Avenue about 5 p.m. but found abandoned at 8:45 p.m. west of the Bay Bridge toll plaza by the California Highway Patrol.

Reem said he parked the car, with the keys in the ignition, and went into Top Properties Realty Co. where he works. He told police that he saw a tall, slim youth look into the car and then a few minutes later saw the car speed off east on Fifth Avenue.

The car was found undamaged but without the keys.

Rainiest Spot In World Once Dry

By JAMES LAGIER

HONOLULU (AP)—Legend has it that the rainiest spot in the world — the top of Hawaii's Mount Waialeale (pronounced wy'-ah- lay-ay'-lay) — once was dry.

But the Menehunes—mythical Hawaiian pygmies—put up a stone idol dedicated to their rain god on the summit and then began the deluge.

Since the ancient Hawaiians built a sacred temple there, not more than a few dozen people have dared the hazardous climb to check the 471.68-inch dousing the mountain averages each year.

The nearest inhabited area just 10 miles away has an average annual rainfall of slightly more than 20 inches.

Mount Waialeale, which means "rippling water," is the core of the island of Kauai pronounced cow-aye' at the northern end of the Hawaiian chain.

All seven of the island's major rivers radiate off its rugged, spongy slopes like the spokes of a wheel.

Its 5,080-foot summit is swept by constant winds and usually is veiled in an dense mass of water-soaked clouds.

The mountain had great spiritual significance to the ancient Hawaiians. Its summit was the site of the most sacred of a chain of seven heiaus—temples—leading from the shore of the island to the summit.

Yearly treks were made to the top by a U.S. Geological Survey team to measure the contents of a 900-inch rain gauge.

The federal agency discontinued the annual rainfall readings in 1959 when a typhoon destroyed the equipment.

Local officials, fearing Hawaii might lose her title by default, pressed for repairs to the equipment and the first reading in four years should be made late this year.

The difficult job of measuring the rainfall and bringing data down from the swampy summit has been the task of the U.S. Geological Survey's water resources division for more than a half-century.

It involves a perilous climb, rough even for a trained outdoors man.

Forty to 52 feet of rain a year has created a spongy bog one to three miles wide on the summit and extending down the northwest slope for five miles.

The approach to the bog is through some of the thickest jungles in the islands.

The last part of the climb must be made through knee-deep swamp.

Eddie Taniguchi, a Kauai cowboy, acts as guide.

Taniguchi has been to the summit about 25 times. He recalls he was there only once when it was clear.

Records in Honolulu show an even higher average rainfall for Mount Waialeale than is usually attributed to it.

From 1930 to 1951, the average was 510.91 inches with a high in 1948 of 624.10 and a low in 1951 of 335.45.

Measurements made from 1912 over 34 years indicates an average yearly rainfall of 476.34, about five inches more than the figure given in world almanacs.

Mount Waialeale competes with Cherrajunji in the Upper Ganges Valley of India which has averaged rainfall of 450 inches a year over 74 years.

However, the Indians claim the highest rainfall in one rainy monsoon, 1,042 inches in 1860-61; the highest for one month, 366 inches in 1861; and the highest in one five-day period, 12.5 feet in 1841.

The local U.S. Geological Survey office feels it has determined to its own satisfaction that Mount Waialeale is the world's rainiest spot.

American Indians enumerated in the 1960 Census numbered 523,591, an increase of 166,092, or 46.5 per cent over the 1950 count of 357,499.

"Everybody sits by a window"...

By MARTHA FLEMING

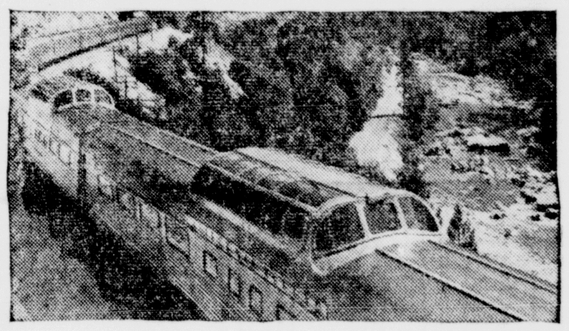

If your youngsters—or the grown-ups at your house—think they've seen it all, why not try a two-day, two-night cruise between Chicago and fabled San Francisco?

That's right—a cruise, aboard a gleaming silver "ship" some 200 feet longer than La France, and two or three times as fast. This cruise speeds you across the Great Plains, soars up the Front Range and through gorgeous canyons of the Rocky Mountains, glides smoothly past Great Salt Lake and across the American Desert, navigates serenely through the storied Sierra, and finally finds its moorings alongside the greatest harbor of them all—San Francisco Bay.

This "ship" is a train—the stainless steel Vista-Dome California Zephyr, which provided our three young 'uns (and their parents) with adventures unsuspected by devotees of Superman and Flash Gordon.

And if this train offers thrills to youngsters, look at it from the parent's point of view! This is a cruise without the tummy tipsiness of some travel modes—and without the tawdry tedium of expressway travel. There's no "What can I do now?" In fact, for hours on end this vacation-with-kids turned into a vacation-from-kids. For which Hooray!

What did the kids find to do? Frankly, just about the same things their parents did. For a trip aboard the Vista-Dome California Zephyr is truly a land cruise, with the delightful roof-top glass enclosed penthouses a major attraction. From these Vista-Domes—and there are plenty of seats for all passengers to have ample sightseeing time—you look up, down, and all around at the world's loveliest mountain scenery. Or, as Betsy, in the wisdom of a ten-year-old, remarked, "Everybody sits by a window!"

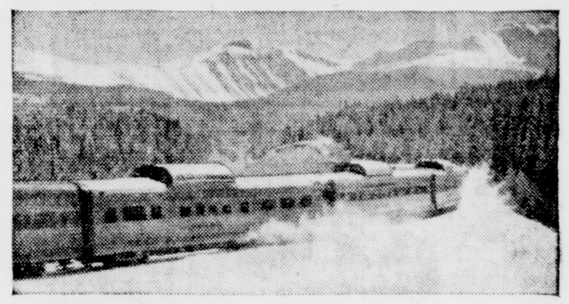

But scenery is only part of the Zephyr story. There's sippin' and snackin' in the Cable Car room, a transplanted bit of old San Francisco. There's de luxe dining—snowy linens, demi-tasses, and all—in the justly-famed dining car. And, for Pullman passengers, there's the suave sophistication of a cozy little cocktail room in the rear lounge car.

Our children had never experienced either overnight coach travel or the all-out luxury of a Pullman room. On our Zephyr trip, we tried both—coach one way, and a Pullman suite the other.

Which did we like better? The answer is simple: Both! The slumber-party atmosphere of coaches at night (with reclining seats, big fluffy pillows with crisp white slips, and leg rests which made a thrifty seat seem like a real bed) was both restful and entertaining. And by day, of course, the comradeship of coach neighbors is simply terrific.

But there's a lot to be said for a private Pullman room with a real closet, a washroom all your own, and real beds where you sleep in real pajamas. From the parents' point of view, Pullman travel is worth the extra cost—but if I had to choose between coach travel and staying home... pack my bag and reserve my coach seat!

As for features of the trip, of course, the scenery comes first. This train is designed and scheduled for sightseeing—hour after daylight hour in the Rockies and the Sierra, with the Vista-Domes spreading it all out before you. But we won't forget the gracious Zephyrettes—train hostesses who made dinner reservations to avoid waiting, heated babies' bottles, found old ladies' misplaced glasses, and (it must be admitted) completely charmed the men.

We thoroughly approved of the baggage service—hundreds of pounds on the baggage car (free!) and carry-on luggage without restrictions as to size and weight. The family treasury was relieved by thrifty family fares, with extra savings for the round trip. And it was delightful to discover the Zephyr meals didn't bust the budget.

Best of all, though, was the realization that the kids were safe to roam a little, so Mom and Dad could find congenial companionship without worry about the youngsters.

That relaxation, I think, is what made the whole family agree that our best trip ever was that land cruise on the Vista-Dome California Zephyr!

HOW TO PLAY WINNING BRIDGE

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Learn A Lesson In Kindness From Today's Bridge Hand

Cruelty is one of the worst vices. When your opponent cannot get to dummy to take a finesse, do you laugh in his face? Shame on you.

Learn a lesson in kindness from today's hand.

Opening lead — ♣ Q

South ruffed the third round of clubs and naturally led a low spade to dummy's king.

SNICKER

East won with the ace of spades and snickered out loud. "Not through the Iron Duke!" he chortled. "You'll have to lead everything out of your own hand."

East then returned a low heart, still rejoicing in his cruelty. But you know what pride goeth before.

East fell on his nose when South won the heart return and laid down the queen of spades to catch West's jack.

GRATITUDE

West wasn't grateful. "Thanks for nothing," he said bittedly to East. "If you'd let him reach dummy I'd have won a trick with that jack of spades."

This was perfectly true. If East had a spark of kindness in him he would let dummy win the first trump trick with the king.

Since a truly kind person doesn't call attention to his virtue, East would have to play a low spade casually and calmly.

CONVINCED

Now South would return a low spade from dummy, and East would play low again.

South would be convinced that the ace of spades was in the West hand, and he would finesse with the 10 of spades.

West would win with the jack of spades—and only then would it be time for East to think of snickering.

There is a moral in this for every kind man or woman:

If your opponent wants to take a finesse, make it easy for him to do so—when you have nothing for him to finesse through.

Today is Friday, Jan. 25, the 25th day of 1963 with 340 to follow.

The moon is new.

The morning stars are Venus and Mars.

The evening stars are Mars, Jupiter and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1787, a Revolutionary led 2,000 debt-ridden men against the federal arsenal in Springfield, Mass., hoping to overthrow the government.

In 1863, Gen. Joseph Hooker succeeded Gen. Ambrose Burnside as commander of the Northern Army of the Potomac.

A thought for the day—William Penn said: "Men are generally more careful of the breed of their horses and dogs than of their children."

ARMY RECRUITERS TRY NEW 'TWIST' ON YOUTHS

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Army recruiters are trying a new twist—"the Army enlistment twist."

A song aimed at the younger set was recorded yesterday by Dick Dale, billed as the pied piper of the surfers, and singer Francine York.

An Army plug distributed with the record says: "This spin should make lots of instant infantry. Let's fire one, bend our knees, swivel our hips and twist on down and enlist."

Enemark Is Installed As Chamber President

Fred F. Enemark was installed for a second time as president of the San Rafael Chamber of Commerce last night, becoming only the second man in the chamber's 42-year history to be elected twice. He also served as president in 1958.

Enemark, executive vice-president of Marin County Savings and Loan Assn., succeeded Jess J. France, Jr., securities broker, as head of the chamber at a dinner-dance attended by more than 200 persons in Dominic's Restaurant, San Rafael.

The only other man to serve two terms was M. J. Lamperti in 1948 and 1949, according to the chamber office.

New vice presidents Paul F. Kent and Dr. Russell R. Klein succeeded Francis T. Fogarty and George T. Lawrence. Glenn W. Sleezer was re-elected treasurer.

Members of the new board of directors are Richard V. Bettini, Mrs. Blanche Redmond, William R. Costello, Leroy Rudolph, Wishard A. Brown, Jack Farrar, Theodore B. Craig, Robert W. F. Severin, Robert P. Ritter, Jordan L. Martinelli Jr., Lawrence and France.

A special presentation was made to Harry Albert as the man who has done "more than anyone else" to help the City of San Rafael.

France, in turning over the gavel, reviewed the year's activity and presented framed certificates of appreciation to outgoing board members and to his committee chairmen. He was given a mounted gold plaque of Marin County suitably inscribed.

In taking over, Enemark promised "the same enthusiasm" that he had when he served five years ago and a cooperative effort through the new board. "We'll let our actions speak for us."

A. L. Nieri of the Bank of Marin was master of ceremonies. Rev. Wesley C. Baker of San Rafael Presbyterian Church gave the invocation. Dick Hart's orchestra played for dancing.

Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Grades—Ann Carr, Sausalito, first; Lurah Magee, San Rafael, second; Laurie Mead, Sausalito, third. Honorable mentions, Tracy Sleight, Peti Camp, Andy Fletcher, Steven Horwiz.

Seventh and Eighth Grades—Katie Brewer, Sausalito, first; Dara Woods, Sausalito, second; Yvonne Hodges, Marin City, third. Honorable mentions are Marie Washington and Nancy Draper.

Awards will be mailed to the pupils, Mrs. Stanley said, $15 to first prize winners, $10 to second, $5 for third and $2 for honorable mention.

Catching Fish On The Road

NEAH BAY, Wash. (AP) — Hooknose salmon still tastes good, even if caught in the middle of the highway.

Mrs. Hershel Mayes and Mrs. Lyle Dupree, wives of servicemen stationed at the 758th Radar Squadron at the Makah Air Force Station, report:

They saw a salmon splashing in ankle-deep water over the road near the mouth of the Sekiu River, after a high tide and heavy rain.

They stopped their car and killed it with a club.

The 14-pound fish made good dinners for both families.

Marin Arts Quartet Opens Season Sunday

The first concert of the Marin Arts Quartet season will open at 3 p.m. Sunday at the Outdoor Art Club clubhouse at Mill Valley.

Members of the string quartet are the same as last year: Charles Meacham, Everett O'Bannon, Elizabeth Bell, and Mattos Maguire.

Thieves Get Haul Of $1,240

Thieves ransacked a home in the Meadowsweet area outside Corte Madera yesterday, carting off about 60 bottles of liquor and household appliances and clothing for a total haul of $1,240.

Victims are Patrik Butler, 46, and Albert Lord Denney, 52, of 1100 Meadowsweet Drive, Corte Madera. Butler is a business executive for H. R. Basford Co., wholesale distributors of records, television and stoves. Denney is an attorney.

The burglars broke in sometime during the day, while both men were away at work.

They got home about 6 o'clock last night to find glass panes had been removed from a bedroom window.

Missing are a portable phonograph, typewriter, tape recorder, about $150 from a coin jar, 24 bottles of gin, 34 bottles of whiskey, and clothing.

Deputy Sheriff James L. Current said the thief or thieves had also helped themselves to bread and cookies in the kitchen.

Intoxicated Driver Given $166 Fine

Eugene Allen Petty, 39, of 164 Park Street, San Rafael, must pay $166 fine and remain on one year probation for drunken driving.

Judge Joseph G. Wilson of Marin Municipal Court sentenced Petty yesterday for driving while intoxicated along Union Street in San Rafael on Jan. 14.

School Employees Aid Tax Election Campaign

Non-teaching employees of the Tamalpais Union High School District have donated $113 to help finance the district's April 16 tax election campaign.

The Committee for Quality Education staging the campaign is asking voter approval to maintain the current $1.90 operational tax rate for the district.

Plans To Begin On College Building

The Marin Junior College District board last night authorized its architects, Falk and Booth, to proceed with planning a student center, fine arts building, and corporation yard.

The architects are also to explore the possibility of putting the district's administration offices in the old gymnasium at the time the new gym is ready for occupancy during the summer of 1964.

Dariel Fitzroy, a sound engineer, was hired to make a sound study of Room 96 in Olney Hall at a cost of between $450 and $600.

The Marin Junior College District board also:

1. Deferred to its Feb. 14 meeting a request by Ghilotti Brothers for an extension of time on work on the gym site and authorized a payment of $17,538 to the contractors.

2. Gave final approval to an exchange of property with the Kentfield School District.

3. Authorized purchase of property of Mr. and Mrs. William N. Ford at 1 Laurel Avenue, Kentfield, for $16,000.

4. Authorized an unspecified number of board members and two administrators to attend the annual convention of the American Assn. of Junior Colleges in Seattle, Feb. 26-28, despite Trustee George G. Washburn's objection to board members "going to administrative meetings."

5. Approved a trip by President Stephen E. Epler to Los Angeles, Jan. 18-19, to attend the executive committee meeting of the California Junior College Assn., also at the district's expense.

6. Denied a request by the San Rafael Elks Lodge to use the football field and bleachers for a circus on June 1 because of possible damage to the turf.

7. Approved all other uses of college facilities requested, but with first choice of the use of the facilities being given to student functions.

8. Set an open house at the college for March 31 from 2:30 to 5 p.m.

9. Approved all new courses proposed by the curriculum committee and the president's council.

10. Hired Sandra Claire Truex as a part-time assistant nursing instructor for the spring semester at a salary of $1,500.

11. Approved polling precincts and personnel for the April 16 board election.

12. Adjourned to Feb. 14.

Trustee Kent O. Seymour was absent.

Bay Area Crusade Names Leydecker

Byron Leydecker of San Rafael, president of the Marin United Crusade, was named a vice president of the United Bay Area Crusade today in meeting of the board of governors and executive committee in San Francisco.

Harry Dalton and Donald Kreps, both of Greenbrae, and Mrs. Robert Kettenbach of Belvedere were elected to the executive committee. B. W. Broemmel, Hugh Cassidy, Arthur C. Latno Jr., and Rex T. Silvernale, all of San Rafael, Thomas A. Rotell of Corte Madera and Thomas S. Page of Mill Valley were named to the board of governors.

San Rafael High President Elected

Richard Raznikov yesterday defeated Tyler Weeks in a run-off election for student body vice president at San Rafael High School.

The run-off was forced when none of the four candidates in the earlier vote received a majority.

Strange Birds

WELLINGTON, New Zealand (UPI) — New Zealand is a natural zoo for a number of species of rare, strange birds. Many can't fly. One species flies only for pleasure. Others live in dens rather than nests. A particular kind of wood hen is a major killer of rats and small dogs.

Better Watch That Stuff Yourself

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — An irate listener telephoned Jim Walton of radio station WHAS to ask why some announcers man-handled the English language by the constant use of slang and abbreviations.

Walton explained that such short talk added emphasis and interest, and so on.

The caller didn't budge an inch. When the conversation died down, Walton thanked the man for his interest.

"That's OK," he replied.

Marin is the home of a number of railroad buffs, and among the most enthusiastic is Warren Marcus of San Rafael. In tomorrow's Independent-Journal Marin Magazine, Mildred Howie tells you about Marcus' hobby — and how his family shares it with him. The magazine will also show you some of Marcus' railroading photos and other mementos.

Both Marin and New England can claim poet Sarah Wingate Taylor. She is a teacher on the Dominican College campus in San Rafael. But her summers are spent on her beloved Clark's Island off the coast of Massachusetts, inhabited by her father's family for generations. I-J reporter Patricia Zinn writes about Miss Taylor in tomorrow's magazine.

At the Marin Juvenile Hall they call her the indispensable woman. She's Mrs. Louise Bradley, and you will find her working at the key admissions and controls desk. Marin Magazine editor Don Keown tells you why Louise Bradley is indispensable. And why she is regarded as a friend by so many of the youngsters who have been detained at the hall.

Marin's own magazine . . . picturing and reporting life in Marin today . . . personalities, recreation, coming events, book reviews, gardening, music, home improvement, weekly TV log. A week of good reading. Look for it, Saturdays.

Unknowns Among Lucky Leaders

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—There were some strange names among the leaders in the $50,000 Lucky International golf tournament as the second round of play got under way today.

Art Wall, the 39-year-old former Masters king, and Jacky Cupit, 23-year-old 1961 "rookie of the year" were leading the race with four-under-par 67s. Their names are well known.

But did you ever hear of Terry Dill? Jack Bissegger? Bob Harrison or Bill Eggers?

They are right up there close, ready to take over if the leaders show any signs of faltering on the over-played Harding Park public golf course.

The greens are so bumpy the leading professionals refuse to even comment on them. And the lies are so tight that many of the top names are playing like duffers.

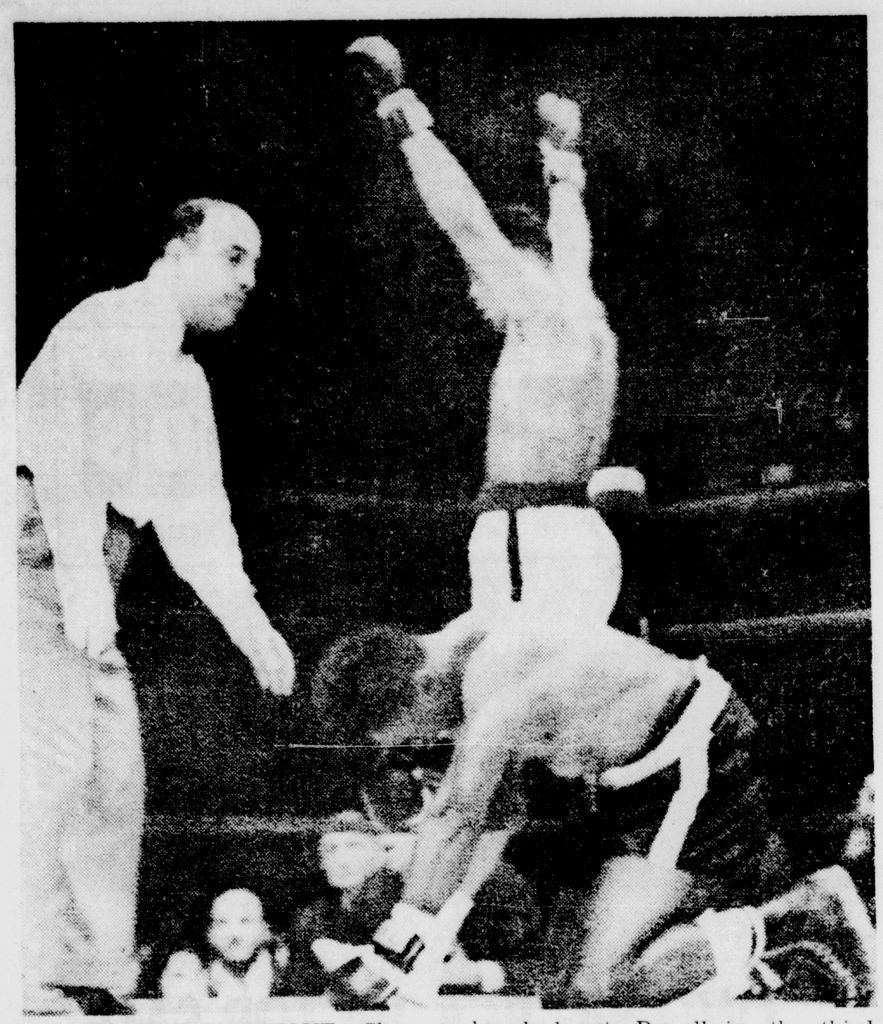

But Wall and Cupit, and 21 others who broke par are not complaining. They had no trouble mastering the fairways and solving the greens.

Dill was tied at 68 with Dick Mayer, the former National Open and world champion; Charley Sifford, the Negro golfing king; long-hitting Bobby Nichols, and Phil Rodgers, a 23-year-old rookie from University of Texas who shows signs of greatness.

Bissegger, who had a 69, is a Canadian with promise. Harrison with 70 has played the winter tour several years from Palm Desert, Calif., and Eggers is playing out of Las Vegas, Nev.

But such men as Arnold Palmer, 73, Gary Player, 74, and Open champion Jack Nicklaus, 76, found the going a bit too rough.

Meanwhile, defending champion Gene Littler stayed up close with a 70; and Bill Casper, winner of the Bing Crosby last week, had a 69.

PROPHESIZED KNOCKOUT—Charley Powell slumps on the canvass while Cassius Clay holds both gloves aloft in a victory symbol after Clay knocked out Powell in the third round, the round Clay had predicted he would finish the ex-San Francisco 49er. Referee is Ernie Sesto. (AP Wirephoto)

Track And Field Records Soaring Higher, Higher . . .

RANDOL

We take an awful lot for granted in today's wonderful world of sport. Hardly a week goes by but some track or field record in some event is not only broken but smashed. We take the new mark in stride, yawn a little, and settle back to wait for the next record breaker.

I think it is about time to back up a few paces and get things into the proper perspective.

For a starter, get out a yard stick or a tape measure and make a mark on the wall at seven feet. Or, if you are too lazy, just take a look at the nearest doorway, the standard height is about six feet eight inches. Okay? Okay.

NOW, FOR perspective, visualize Wilt Chamberlain of the San Francisco Warriors basketball team walking through your doorway, and bending over five inches so he won't brain himself. Small wonder the tall man seems in a world of his own and is sick of hearing people ask him "How's the weather up there?"

Take another squint at that doorway and realize that the world record high jump is nearly TEN inches above the top of the entrance. Jump that high? Why, you and I would be afraid to FALL that far, even into sawdust or foam rubber.

ONLY A few years ago, any man who could jump six feet was a cinch first place winner. Now there are at least half a dozen who can clear seven feet. It would seem that the only barrier to greater heights is the mind of man himself.

One of these astro-jumpers is Gene Johnson of the University of California. And the experts reason that Gene penalizes himself four or five inches every time he jumps because he is stuck with the "western roll" he started with. Which means he goes over sideways with his hip nearest the standard instead of the "belly roll" with split legs.

The first real shocker in track and field came in the '40s when Cornelius Warmerdam began soaring into space on his pole vault. Connie couldn't place in the average meet oday.

AND, WHEN Roger Bannister broke the four-minute mile a few years ago, he also broke the mental barrier that kept others from doing the same. And every mark that stands today will be broken tomorrow. It is a sobering thought.

The comfort and coziness of indoor track and field will be brought to local fans on Feb. 15 when the first Golden Gate Invitational Track Meet will be held at the Cow Palace. The Civic Auditorium in San Francisco hosted an indoor meet nearly 20 years ago, but this one should catch on and become an annual event.

After the show put on by Russian and U.S.A. stars at Stanford last July, the sponsors of the Cow Palace affair may find themselves with a real winner on their hands.

Seals Set For Crucial L.A. Tilts

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The San Francisco Seals head into a critical weekend series against Los Angeles knotted in Western Hockey League standings.

The Seals whipped Calgary 6-2 Thursday but the Blades also won, 6-3 from Spokane, leaving the clubs tied for second place in the league's Southern Division.

They'll play at Los Angeles Saturday then tangle here Sunday.

Ed Panagabko rapped home the final three goals of the night for San Francisco and Nick Mickoski put the Seals ahead twice earlier in the Calgary battle.

BREAKS DEADLOCKS

Mickoski broke deadlocks of 1-1 and 2-2 in the second period. Panagabko earned his hat trick with a second period goal and two more in the third. Orland Kurtenbach scored San Francisco's other goal.

The Seals kept up a peppering attack against Stempeder goalie Roy Edwards, forcing him to make 45 saves, 35 of them in the final 40 minutes.

MCAL BASKETBALL

Tam, San Rafael Top Cage Action

The undefeated Tamalpais Indians will take on the San Rafael High School cagers tonight on the Tam courts in the feature game of the Marin Athletic League.

Second-place Marin Catholic plays Novato on the Hornets' floor and Redwood and Terra Linda clash in the Trojans' gym in other MCAL games. All action starts at 7 p.m. with the B games followed by the varsity tilts.

Tam will be going into tonight's game in first place, one-half game ahead of the Marin Catholic quint, and will be going after win No. five. San Rafael is in third place, one and one-half games behind Tam.

However, San Rafael holds a slight advantage in team statistics in points scored with an average of 54.7 to Tam's 54.0. Tam holds the bulge in defensive play with an average of 40.8 against it compared to 45.3 for San Rafael.

Three Tam cagers are among the top 10 in total points. Art Ford has totaled 51, Warren Domino 47 and Jim Durbin 41 to lead the Indians' attack. For San Rafael, Rod Monti is leading the point-makers with 53 points. Monti is runnerup to Novato's Nick Willard who is leading the Marin scorers with 60 points in three games.

And it will be Willard who will be leading the Hornets against strong Marin Catholic which is led by Ron O'Connell who has averaged 13.7 points in the Wildcats' first three games, all wins.

The Redwood-Terra Linda battle will be a consolation affair with both teams fighting for their first win in league competition. Redwood, led by Hillard Witt and Dave Auerbach, both with 30 points so far, has dropped its first three games. And Terra Linda, although averaging 47.5 points per game, has lost all four of its league games.

'I'M THE GREATEST'

Clay Now Wants To Fight Two Heavies In One Night

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Chirping "I'm the greatest" after easily disposing of Charley Powell in the round he called, irrepressible Cassius Clay offered to fight two boxers in one night "and get it over with."

Clay, the sport's 21-year-old prognosticating poet, referred last night to his next heavyweight fight with Doug Jones and a possible rematch after that with Billy Daniels.

"e had just finished playing punching bag with Powell's head by knocking him out at 2 minutes, 4 seconds of the third round and was chattering incessantly. The victory was his 17th straight without a loss and his 14th by knockout.

"Jones must fall in six," Cassius predicted about his March 13 fight in New York's Madison Square Garden. "Daniels must fall in two. I'd like to fight Daniels and Jones in one night and get it over with."

Clay's ambition to to become the youngest heavyweight champion in boxing history by beating Sonny Liston by next November.

"I'm ready for Liston tomorrow," he said. "Liston isn't as fast and as rough as Powell. My managers and Liston are the only things keeping me from him."

One member of Clay's board of directors, William Cutchins, said Clay is "a year or so" away from fighting for the title.

The Louisville Lip, his own label, unabashedly praised himself as he discussed his latest victory and his future.

MAKING HISTORY

"I'm making history calling all those rounds," he boasted. "No other fighter does that. I'm the prophet of the fight game."

He told of the circumstances that led to his 13th correct prediction witnessed by 11,238 who paid $55,782.

"That big monkey was rough," he said of the 28-year-old Powell, a former pro football player from Los Angeles. "They couldn't call him a push-over. He was hitting and moving fast. He was hoping he'd tag me with one good punch and end it.

"He kept saying, 'C'mon, sissy, you're not hitting hard enough. C'mon, big mouth, you've been talking. Now let's do it. This is the third? I didn't pay any attention. I said, 'Just be cool. It's coming.'

"You see how when the third round came, he got in that corner. He looked wary. He was cautious. I'd be hollering 'Three, three,' and he was waiting for that. I shook him with a jab and three left hooks. I was working on seven, but he didn't stand up long enough.

In contrast to Powell, who suffered a deep gash over his left eye, Clay was unmarked and free of sweat.

"I'm so pretty," Clay concluded. "Let me get dressed. I have some pretty girls waiting for me outside."

Hard Luck Gal Takes Lead In All-Star Bowl Tourney

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Things are looking up for Joy Abel, hardluck girl of last year's All-Star Bowling Tournament.

The 23-year-old Chicago miss held first place today midway in the finals of the $100,000 tournament with 75-41 Petersen points.

Billy Welu of St. Louis led the men's division with 164-12.

Miss Abel saw the $5,000 title slip through her fingers in the final game last year. She rolled a dismal 158 in the crucial last game and lost by nine pins to Shirley Garms, also of Chicago.

Miss Abel stormed to the top for the first time after she outscored Elvira Toepfer of Detroit 445 to 394 in the eighth round yesterday. Her latest triumph gave her 10 games won, 6 lost and a total pinfall of 3,921.

Bobbie Shaler, another Chicago bowler, was second with 75-39 points.

Ray Bluth and Dick Weber, veteran doubles partners from St. Louis, held second and third places and Don Carter, also of St. Louis, was fourth going into today's ninth round.

The tournament ends tomorrow night.

LONG WALK DIDN'T HURT KEN'S SCORE

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Packing his own golf bag one and one-half miles to the first tee may have hurt Ken Venturi's dignity but it apparently didn't bother his score.

Venturi fired an even-par 71 over the Harding Park course in the first round of the $50,000 San Francisco International Open Golf Tournament yesterday after forgetting to put a contestant's parking sticker on his car.

He had to park one and one'half miles away from the course after a gate official said "get out of her, punk," when Venturi tried to explain his way into the official parking lot. The golfer was furious when he arrived to tee off.

Ironically, almost any other official at Harding probably would have recognized the 31-year-old Venturi. He's been playing the course since he was 13 and his father operates its pro shop.

Jockey Manual Ycaza is the son of a motorcycle rider who now operates a bus company in Panama.

Bass Fishing Has Slowed Down In Almost All Areas

STEVENS

As suspected, the wild and wooly run of large stripers taken from boats and by casting live bait from shore off Point Richmond, petered out on Monday. According to my information, the schools of herring have shifted. They're being found near the Tunnel at Richmond and near the Chickens. Sorry if you missed out.

The overall picture of fishing—black bass, striped bass, and steelhead—is far from promising. Action has simmered down in practically all areas; and that includes both the Bay and the Delta areas.

But as always a few entities hither and yon made the grade. John Read plugcast the rocky shore at Dillon's Point on Sunday and lost two large fish and landed one 35-pounder. On Thursday Lloyd Francnk hauled in a legal limit on bait, a three, a 10 and a 15-pounder.

JOE NERVIANI of Joe's Launching at Santa Venetia reported only eight bass over the weekend, but one boat loaded up on flounders.

Henry Dowrelio, who reported very slow striper striving, told me that some fair catches of flounders had come in, and a dozen or more sole! Only once in a blue moon do the soles come in, and they are a real delicacy. Use ultra small hooks and small pieces of bait for the soles.

SLOW FISHING off the Berkeley Pier—a few perch and an occasional bass only. Good on Sunday, and may be good again later in the month.

Sunday was a super successful day for "Dutch" Rink and a group of 10 South County anglers. Aboard the good ship "Nine Sisters," on Sunday, off Richmond, the ten brought home limits each from five to 14 pounds.

JOE NAVARRO of Sportsmen's Center in Castro Valley, made the above report and also told of some mighty fine catfishing in the back country. Walter and Lillian Gorman, for instance, took limits of dandy catfish while fishing near the tules at the mouth of Three Mile Slough on Tuesday, and David and Jean Miranda deducted limits of cats from Italian Slough on Monday. All the catfish seem to have been large, fat and frisky.

Frank Andronico of Frank's Resort at Frank's Tract reported bass fishing rather slow but expected to pick up this weekend. Frank did say, however, that catfishing in the rivers and in the Tract was very good.

Builders Battle Alameda Nine In San Anselmo

Hoping to start another 11-game winning streak, the Billings-Hutchison Builders will battle the Alameda Sporting Goods nine Sunday at 1 p.m. on San Anselmo's Memorial Field.

The Builders are in third place in the Alameda Winter League following their 2-1 loss last Sunday to Milen's Jewelers who are tied for the top spot in the loop. It was the first time the Billings-Hutchison nine had been defeated in 12 games.

Starting lineup for the Builders, managed by Joe Anselmo, will be:

Ron Blum, ss; Dick Spackman, 1b; Don Lauters, 3b; Larry Smooth, c; Bill Gallagher, rf; Jerry Daniele, cf; Ken Gelatti, lf; Ed Vigno, 2b; and either Jerry Walters, Bob De Rosa or Ron Cole, p.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

PITTSBURGH—Cassius Clay of Louisville, 205, knocked out Charley Powell, San Diego, 214, in 2 minutes, 4 seconds of third round of scheduled 10-rounder.

SAN JOSE—Louis Molina, San Jose, 136, knocked out Chihuahua Kid, Sonora, Mex., 135, in second round of scheduled 10-rounder.

MILWAUKEE — Billy Braggs, Milwaukee, 140, decisioned Wayman Dawson, Youngstown, Ohio, 140, 10-rounder.

WORCESTER, Mass. — Johnny Collins, Jersey City, N.J., and Mike Pusateri, Dedham, Mass., middleweights, fight canceled due to cut eye suffered by Collins in training.

VENTURI HAS HIS TROUBLES

Ken Venturi of San Francisco blasts out of a trap on the eighth hole at Harding Park golf course yesterday during the Lucky International golf tournament. His ball came to rest 20 feet from the hole and he two-putted for a bogie four in the first round action. He ended the opening round with a 71. (AP Wirephoto)

SANFORD NOT HAPPY WITH GIANT OFFER

Jack Sanford and the Giants are far apart — and not only in miles, it was learned yesterday.

Sanford, who lives in Duxbury, Mass., said, "We're further apart on contract this year than we were last year."

Sanford was a holdout last spring before he received a raise of some $5000 to $24,000. He missed the opening of spring training before he finally came to terms.

Sanford then won 24 games and dumped the Yankees in the second game of the World Series in a 1-0 thriller against New York's Ralph Terry.

Hersh Freeman, former major league pitcher, will manage Cincinnati's farm team at Rocky Mount, N. C., this season.

Zimmer Goes Back To Los Angeles Dodgers

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Don Zimmer is on his way back to the Los Angeles Dodgers in one of those baseball merry-go-round developments.

The 32-year-old third baseman was traded by the Cincinnati Reds to the Dodgers yesterday for Harold Scott Breeden, a right-hander who was 12-14 with Omaha of the American Assn. last season and will be sent to the Reds' San Diego farm club in the Pacific Coast League.

Zimmer broke into the majors with the Dodgers—then in Brooklyn—in 1954 and stayed with them until 1960, when he was swapped to the Chicago Cubs. The New York Mets got him in the National League expansion draft in October 1961, then dealt him to Cincinnati in May of last year.

The chunky veteran batted a dismal .077 in 14 games with the Mets and finished the year at .213 for 77 games.

THERE WERE a flock of satisfied signers yesterday, including seven Detroit Tigers —catcher Mike Roarke, infielders Jake Wood and Mike Christino, first baseman Vic Wertz, outfielder Bubba Morton and pitchers Phil Regan and Doug Gallagher.

SOUTHPAW Bo Belinsky and catcher Ed Sadowski of the Los Angeles Angels will turn to television acting for a Lloyd Bridges show Feb. 12 on CBS. They'll play a couple of bush leaguers.

Ted Henry's 665-268 Leads Country Club Bowl Scoring

Ted Henry of the 900 Classic League led the keglers at Country Club Bowl for the week with a 665 series made of games of 268, 213 and 184.

Henry's 268 was also the high game of the week. Other big games were rolled by Bill Dockery, 252; Ferd Masberg, 247, and Herm Salkin, 245.

For the women, Peg Zeiler of the Thursday Sleepers League rolled the high game of the week, 233, one pin higher than Vivian Gray's 232 in the same league. Bea Crandall of the Women's 775 Scratch League had the high series score of 577.

Use Of Drug Might Prevent Diabetes

By DELOS SMITH

NEW YORK (UPI)—From five years of revolutionary medical experience in controlling diabetes with a drug emerges the possibility that this chronic, incurable disease can be prevented.

It is an almost incredible possibility from the medical science viewpoint. This disease, which is known to afflict approximately 1,500,000 Americans, is notorious for its inevitability.

Nevertheless the possibility was advanced, with supportive evidence, by Dr. Stefan S. Fajans and Jerome W. Conn of the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, at a recent private conference of medical diabetes experts.

It grew out of their work with 20 persons in whom the apparent beginnings of the disease had been detected—before there had been any symptoms. They were classified as "pre-diabetic."

Sensitive testing revealed their body chemistry had a decreased "tolerance" for the sugars and starches of their diets. In full-blown diabetes there is little if any "tolerance." The lack of it is due to the failure of the pancreas gland to secrete the hormone, insulin, which is required for "tolerance."

All 20 were put on the drug tolbutamide, better known by its trade-name, "Orinase," which in the past five years has been increasingly used for the control of mild diabetes. Before that the lives of diabetics depended upon periodic "shots" of insulin.

In 17 of the 20 "tolerance" of the carbohydrates slowly improved and has remained improved for as long as four years and four months. But that's to be expected of any effective anti-diabetic agent.

What was surprising to the experts was the scientific evidence that the insulin-producing beta cells of the pancreas of some of the 20 appeared to have been restored to normal by continuing drug-taking.

When those cells produce insulin as they should, there can be no diabetes. Fajans and Conn concluded that not only does tolbutamide facilitate the release of insulin, which is why it is anti-diabetic, but also "actually improves performance of insulin-producing tissue."

They're now working with a larger group of persons who are only mildly diabetic with the intention of finding out how the drug strengthens faltering beta cells and whether this highly desired result can be produced reliably.

Studies such as these give direction to those interested in preventing the clinical manifestations and progression of diabetes.," they told the private conference. "Identification and treatment of diabetes at even an earlier stage in the life history of the disease may be even more successful as a preventative measure."

The disease has to be detected and treated when the beta cells are still functioning, they emphasized; if beta cell function is gone three is no restoring it. If this condition can be met, "it is possible that use of sulfonylureau compounds (the drug family to which tolbutamide belongs) may be prophylactic,"that is preventive.

The proceedings of the private conference were published by the American Diabetes Assn.

Terra Linda VFW Is Organizing

A meeting to organize a Terra Linda post of the Veterans of Foreign Wars will be held tonight at 8 o'clock in the Terra Linda Community Center.

The new post, whose number will be 2660, may be named after the late Congressman Clem Miller, said Thomas Caldwell, Terra Linda real estate agent who is in charge of organization plans.

"It will be the first veterans' organization in the Terra Linda, Marinwood and Lucas Valley area," he said.

Any veterans of overseas campaigns who have been awarded United States campaign medals will be eligible to join the new post, Caldwell said.

A. J. Fleming, CFW assistant adjutant of California, will preside at the charter meeting.

Meat consumption in Japan in 1961 averaged only 10 pounds per person compared to 161 in the United States.

Two Groups Work To Restore Mission Bells On Highway 101

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The year was 1906.

A. S. C. Forbes, a California pioneer, decided it would be a good idea to mark the route of the old Spanish highway that once linked the state's missions.

So Forbes set out with horse and buggy and began placing small replicas of mission bells along El Camino Real — the King Highway.

When the task was done, there were 450 bells along what was by then Highway 101. They dotted the roadside from San Diego to San Francisco.

Then time and human nature had their way. Citizens with a yen for tangible history stole some of the bells to decorate their homes. Historical groups, perhaps trying to beat the public to the punch, stored some of the bells away.

Today there are only about 180 of the silent, tongueless bells hanging from the aging standards, which look like bird cage holders.

But two groups have appeared on the scene to remedy the problem. They are the California Mission Trails Assn. and the El Camino Real Society. And their labors will bear fruit this year, in the form of 81 new bells due to appear along the King's Highway.

Maker of the replicas of the earlier bells is Justin Kramer, a Los Angeles bell designer.

"The bells are made of cast iron and weigh about 90 pounds apiece," said Kramer.

"Like the old ones, the new bells are painted an olive color to make them look like weathered bronze. The old replicas were cast iron too."

He said the bells, 18 inches around the lip and 16 inches tall, can be bought by groups to place on historical buildings near El Camino Real.

"We designed the bells to sell for $25. I think we'll break even," Kramer said. Those to be set up along the highway will be paid for by individuals and patriotic groups.

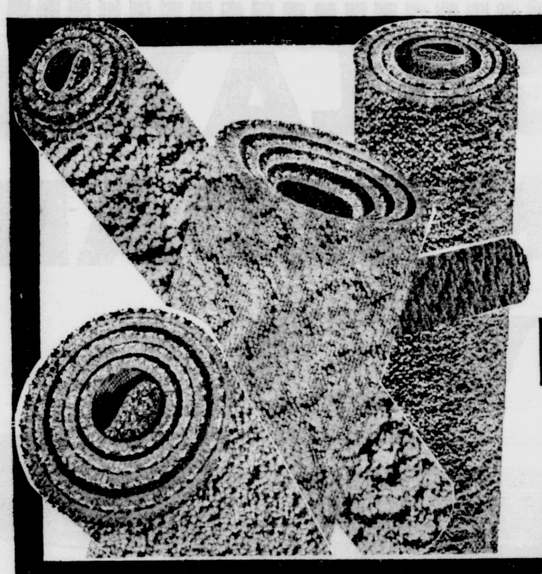

They're scheduled to be placed by next fall. Their erection will come in the 250th anniversary year of the death of Father Junipero Serra, sometimes called "the father of the missions."

Kramer said the bell boosters think they have a secret weapon this time, to discourage persons with an overdeveloped sense of the historic.

"In the bells for the highway, we're casting the words "Property of the state of California."

MARIN'S SOCIAL WHIRL

Kent Woodlands Couple Will Entertain At Party Sunday

By FLORENCE DONNELLY

The Harvey Hands of Kent Woodlands are giving a large cocktail party Sunday. They've invited about 125 friends who will be served potables and canapes in the dining and living rooms and the den. If the weather is warm (that is mostly wishful thinking), the party guests may venture on to the deck of the home. The Hands have three children, Robin, 16, Harvey Jr., 13 and Parker, 10.

Dr. C. B. Musante of San Rafael will be among the honored members of the California Dental Society when it has a dinner meeting Sunday at the St. Francis Hotel in San Francisco. Doctor Musante, a graduate of University of California Dental College, has practiced dentistry for more than 50 years. He has his offices in San Rafael. Another San Rafael dentist, now retired, Dr. Fred E. Sawyer celebrated his ninety-second birthday yesterday quietly at a family dinner at his home.

MRS. WILLIAM H. STOTT of Seafirth, Tiburon, and Mr. Stott will give a wedding rehearsal dinner February 15 honoring her daughter, Paula Margo Heine, and John Edwin Drake, who will be married February 16 at a 2 p.m. ceremony at St. Paul's Episcopal Church in Oakland. The wedding reception will take place at the Encinal Yacht Club in Alameda.

Karen Heine, Paula's twin sister, will be in the group of bridal attendants. The girls are members of a pioneer California family. The maternal grandparents, the late Mr. and Mrs. William David Bradford, had ranches in Arbuckle, Colusa County. Their great aunt, Miss Ella L. Wohlfrom, lives in Williams. Paula is the daughter of the late Frederick C. Heine and her paternal grandmother is Mrs. Ann Heine of Oakland.

Paula and her fiance were honored at a cocktail party recently given by her aunt, Mrs. Frank W. Teasdel of Piedmont. Paula studied at Oakland City College and San Jose State College.

John is the son of the J. E. Drakes of Glen Rock, N.J. He is a graduate of Pennsylvania State University where he was affiliated with Phi Kappa Tau. He has one brother, Thomas G. Drake of Pearl River, N.Y. Mrs. H. G. Drake of Des Moines, Iowa, is John's grandmother. He and his bride will reside in Oakland.

MRS. K. M. JONES of Novato has returned from two months in Europe. She spent the holidays with her son, Ed, who is attending a private school in Holland.

THE MYSTERIES of Continental cuisine are being studied by a group of women on the Tiburon Peninsula. The six weeks course is being given by Paul Mayer, who studied at the Gordon Bleu. He makes a "gastronomical" tour of Europe each year and returns to the United States to reveal methods of preparing delightful new dishes. The course is being held at the home of Mrs. Leon A. Julian of Belvedere. Also attending the demonstrations are Mesdames Thomas Dorst, Bruce Manheim, M. W. Neal, Helen Issel, Benjamin Young and Jay Cason. Recipes for the first dishes came from Denmark and France.

ALUMNAE AT LUNCHEON

Alpha Omicron Pi Alumnae arrived at the Greenbrae home of Mrs. Edmond Eger yesterday for a luncheon and to hear Mrs. W. B. Clausen, left, an East Bay decorator and alumnae member, speak to the group. Here serving her lunch is Mrs. Clyde J. Curley, secretary-treasurer, center, with the Marin president, Mrs. Milton L. Stannard. The meeting also featured the group's installation of officers for the 1963 term. (Independent-Journal photo)

Women Said Less Creative In Intellect

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Highly educated women are not as intellectually creative as their male counterparts, a woman psychologist said today at the opening of a three day meeting on the problems of the 20th century woman.

Dr. Eleanor E. Maccoby, a Stanford university psychologist, declared at a University of California Medical Center symposium:

"To those who hoped equal education of women would yield equal intellectual achievements, an appraisal must be disappointing.

"A MADAME CURIE is conspicuous by her rarity," she said.

Dr. Maccoby said women's "famous intuition" hasn't helped her much in creative science where intuition is required. "In letters, where her special talents are presumed to lie, we have many more creative male writers than females."

She said a recent study of 400 women Ph.Ds showed that they wrote fewer papers than men, regardless of whether they were married or single.

Offering a theory to explain the situation, Dr. Maccoby said it might be that boys become more productive intellectually because they are allowed more freedom, initiative and self-assertion.

WOMEN WHO are intellectually creative, she said, probably were tomboys in their childhood.

Most girls tend to be conformists, excelling at tasks for which there is only one right answer as in spelling and punctuation, she noted. But for higher-level intellectual activity, "independence of mind is required—the ability to turn one's back on others while working on a problem."

"Yet if a girl retains her qualities of dominance, independence, and active striving which are apparently requisite to good analytic thinking, she is defying the appropriate behavior for her sex.

"Does a woman really need to be passive and dependent to be attractive to men, or in order to be a good mother?" Dr. Maccoby asked her colleagues.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind. (UPI) — Automation is cutting deeply into employment ranks in a wide variety of occupations but, as a pork dropper, Geneva Long feels secure in her job.

'Fashion Power' For Section Talk

"Secrets of Fashion Power For Your Wardrobe" will be the theme of Mrs. G. John Faiola of Sausalito, associate home economist in the Educational Department of McCall's Patterns, when she speaks to the American Home Section of the San Rafael Improvement Club at its luncheon meeting on Tuesday at noon.

Mrs. Faiola travels through this area putting on demonstrations, seminars and workshops for high schools, colleges and 4-H groups.

She will demonstrate optical illusions in clothes, analyze line, use of color and textures, imaginative accessories and show how sewing stretches dollars.

Using demonstration dolls and actual wardrobe items, she will give suggestions on how to build a wardrobe on the good things already in the closet, selecting, eliminating, adding and creating with a knowing eye. Mrs. Cletus Fitzharris, chairman of the American Home Section, is program chairman.

Mrs. Fitzharris announced that lesson groups are being formed under sponsorship of the section to teach mosaic work, furniture refinishing and Japanese brush painting.

The luncheon, for members only, is headed by Mrs. Alex Bovee, also reservations chairman. She is assisted by Mesdames Donald F. Murray, Sydney Frank, John M. Bagshaw, Elie Dalmon and Lewis L. Baker.

'Miracles Of Lourdes' Is Subject For Marin Program

Winifred Feely, lecturer on the miracles of Lourdes, will speak in the Marin Catholic High School cafeteria Monday at 8 p.m., sponsored by the women of the Marin County Council of the Archdiocesan Council of Catholic Women.

Mrs. Feely, who has lectured throughout the United States to help the Medical Bureau and the Bishop of Lourdes, will be introduced by the Rev. Edward Dullea, principal of Marin Catholic High School.

IN DECEMBER, 1958, she was the first woman to receive the Marian Award granted by Dayton University to "the person who has performed outstanding service to Our Lady during the year." In June, 1960, an honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon her by St. Mary's College of Notre Dame University.

She is official interpreter at the Medical Bureau and acts as assistant to the medical staff, providing technical equipment for its laboratories. She is liaison officer between the staff of medical experts at Lourdes and the wards of sick pilgrims.

Born in China of British parents, Mrs. Feely lived most of her life in that country, marrying an Irishman in business there. He died after imprisonment in a Japanese concentration camp during World War II.

MRS. FEELY was in France when the war broke out and had an adventurous escape from that country as the Nazi army marched in. During the bombardment of London, she did war work in the city during the day, working in the shelters at night. After D-Day, she crossed the channel with the Catholic Women's League attached to the Army and in 1944 helped open canteens and clubs for the Allied Forces. She spent seven months in Antwerp during heavy bombardments and later went into Germany. When the victory parade marched through London, Mrs. Feely was chosen to represent the Catholic Women's league in the procession.

In 1950 she was seriously ill and went to Lourdes to prepare. She was cured there and ever since has devoted her life to working at Lourdes during the pilgrimage season, and lecturing the rest of the year.

CHAIRMAN OF arrangements for Monday's program is Mrs. John Egan of Greenbrae who is assisted by Mesdames Jack Bodeen of San Rafael, Frank Ubhaus of Strawberry, Stanley Lawrence of Greenbrae and Ralph Tobener of Corte Madera.

All families of Marin County are welcome, they announce. The free program will feature a new film on the shrine at Lourdes.

Scout Adults Plan Annual Council Meet

The annual meeting of the Marin County Girl Scouts Council will be held on Tuesday at Brown House, Arequipa, Fairfax. Following registration of delegates and coffee at 9:30, the business meeting will open at 10 a.m. with Mrs. Harold F. Green, council president, presiding. Mrs. William H. Ecker Jr. is chairman of the meeting.

A panel, moderated by Mrs. Green, will discuss the San Francisco Bay Council consolidation plan and will answer questions from the floor.

Following the report of the nominating committee, new council officers will be elected.

Mrs. Lyman Emerson, recent international visitor to Greece, will show slides and tell about her trip.

All registered adult Girl Scouts have been urged to attend.

Mrs. John Gentles Heads Heart Sunday

Mrs. John Gentles of San Rafael has been named chairman of the 1963 Heart Sunday drive in Marin County called for the weekend of Feb. 23 and ending March 3.

Announcement was made this week by A. L. Nieri, county chairman of the annual campaign in February which benefits the Marin County Heart Assn.'s programs of research, education and community service.

The heart research story is well known to Mrs. Gentles, mother of three healthy children today, one of whom underwent heart surgery three years ago at John Hopkins Hospital in Baltimore.

Mrs. Gentles is also close to the heart program on the Marin level having served last year as co-chairman for San Rafael for Heart Sunday.

"Heart Fund volunteers do perform two important services," Mrs. Gentles pointed out. "They distribute important educational information about the heart and blood vessel diseases and they receive contributions to the Heart Fund to fight these diseases."

The Gentles have been Marinites for the past 10 years, after returning from London where Mr. Gentles was assigned for two years with the Bechtel Corp. oil refinery work for Saudi Arabia.

Mrs. Gentles is also leader for Camp Fire Girls in the Loch Lomond and Glenwood area; a member of Peter Pan Chapter of Children's Home Society of Marin, and a past vice president of the group; committee member of St. Luke's Presbyterian Church, and the Louise A. Boyd Natural Science Museum.

In her new post Mrs. Gentles will head more than 1,900 heart fund volunteers who will each make a residential canvass of 10 to 15 Marin homes within their immediate neighborhoods weekend of Feb. 28 through March 3.

Giving A Children's Party Need Not Frazzle Mother

Party is often a magic word to everyone except the mother of the little boy or girl who is celebrating a birthday or any other occasion.

For mothers a party should be as much fun to give as it is for children to attend, says wedding and entertainment consultant Claire Dreier.

ONE OF THE EASIEST ways to enjoy giving a party for children is to plan at least two or three weeks ahead and get every detail down on paper — time, number of guests, theme, games and refreshments.

"This will leave your mind clear to do the fast thinking necessary in case of emergencies," she says.

The role of the parent at a child's party is that of "a leader who isn't too prominent," says Miss Dreier. Mother must be patient, gracious, thoughtful, firm and most important of all, she must be enthusiastic.

BUT SHE MUST stress to her child that it is his or her party, not mother's, and give her child the responsibility of being a good host or hostess. This includes greeting and introducing the guests and leading them from one activity to the next.

Helping children overcome their initial shyness is simple. Children love to be helpful and feel important and as soon as they do, they feel right at home.

If mother has not had time to decorate for the party, she simply has to say "I didn't have time to make the decorations so would you all help me?" and they will plunge right in enthusiastically.

Younger children like simple activities, especially things they can do with their hands such as writing, cutting out, drawing or coloring, says Miss Dreier. One of her favorite games for a children's party is one in which each child writes out the letters of the alphabet and then sees how many things he can draw using these letters. For example from "A" he can draw a teepee, from "a" he can draw a bug.

CHILDREN need to express themselves physically as well as mentally, and dancing games are an excellent way. They like to sing and if they have special talents of any kind they can even provide their own entertainment.

A party should end with refreshments. This is what children look forward to and so the eating part should be made as gracious and as easy as possible for them, says Miss Dreier.

"No child can be expected to juggle a cup of cocoa and a sandwich and not have a spill."

Food may be simple — hot dogs or sandwiches, cake, cookies and some beverage. "And of course a party wouldn't be a party without ice cream."

Drive Contribution To Provide Award

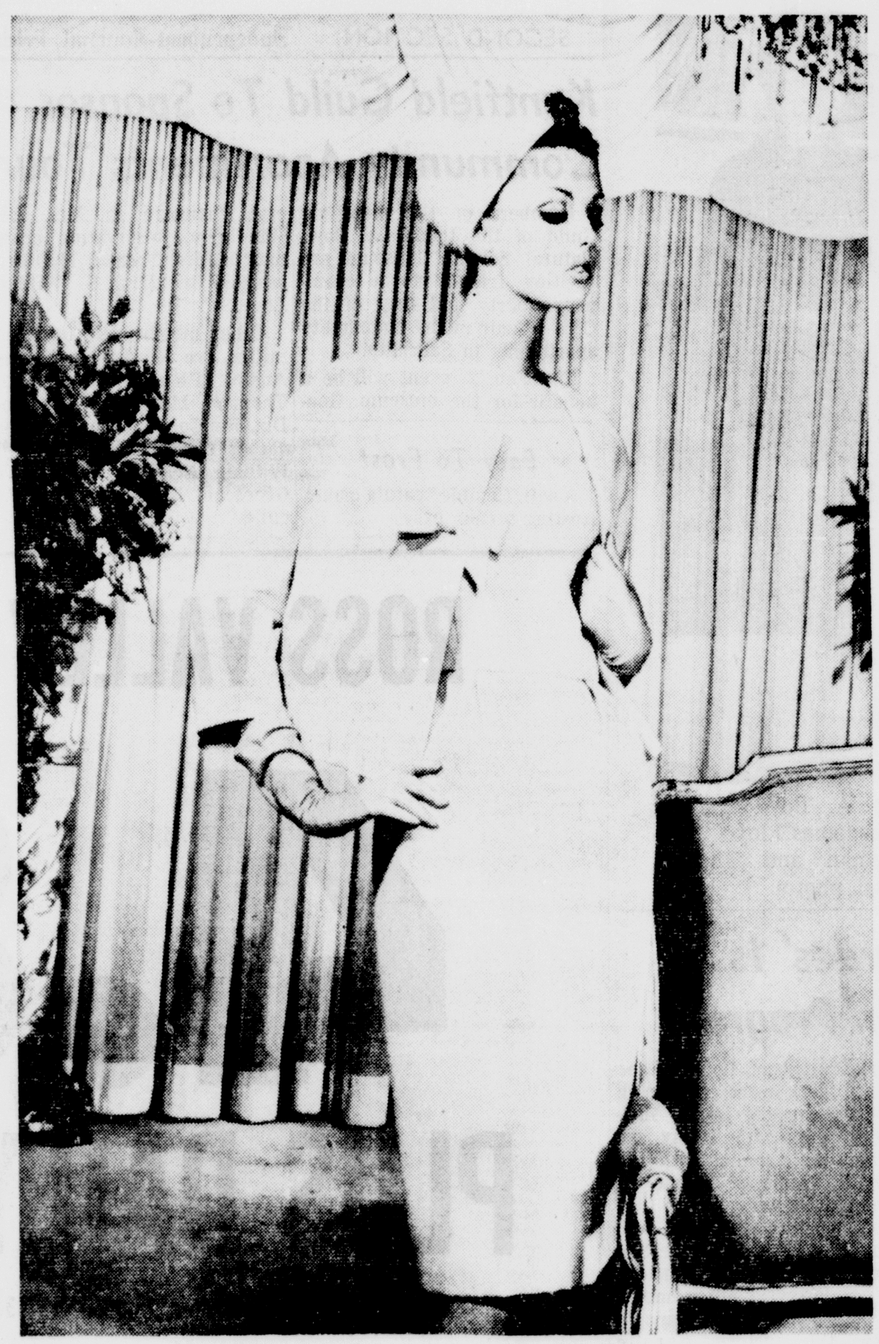

Contributions to the 25th Anniversary March of Dimes will be used in part to help local high school students start a career in the health professions, it was announced today by Miss Valerie M. Ansel, chairman of the Scholarship Committee of the Marin County Chapter of the National Foundation.

Miss Ansel said, "The chapter, participating in the new March of Dimes Health Careers Awards program, will provide a one-year scholarship of $500.00 to a qualified high school senior who intends to follow a career in an area of the various fields of nursing. The award is intended to encourage a student to start a health career, and for this reason, emphasis will be on aiding new students each year."

"The National Foundation has helped train thousands of young people in medicine and other health professions during the past 25 years," Miss Ansel said. "But there is still a dearth of trained personnel."

"We are now asking Marin residents to take a direct part in alleviating this serious situation by contributing to the 25th Anniversary of the March of Dimes."

Award application forms will be available from high schools within Marin or from Miss Ansel, 245 Crescent Road, San Anselmo. All completed application forms and all other required credentials must be received by April 15.

Part Underneath Important For Upholstering

CHICAGO (UPI) — When a homemaker selects upholstered furniture, the choice is frequently determined by what's on the outside.

Despite the importance of fabrics for color, design and durability, the part underneath this dress skin is more important than any other factor.

In a guide to furniture buying, Alice Alexander recommends, "get the inside story" on questions about construction.

The frame or "skeleton" of a sofa or chair should be made of hardwood, she said. The joints, where the frame is joined, should be "double-doweled" (reinforced for strength with a pair of wooden pegs inserted deeply into the frame).

The main joints should be reinforced further with either plywood panels or glue blocks, depending on the strength requirements.

Webbing, which used to be a common support of spring construction, has largely been replaced with cold-rolled strip steel bands. These bands are not subject to stretching, as was fabric webbing, and are far more durable.

Drake Dances Set

Sir Francis Drake High School's Parent-Teacher Assn. announced the dates of five dances scheduled for Drake freshmen and sophomores.

A freshman dance will be held March 16. On Feb. 16 and April 20, the sophomores will hold their dances. The final dance will be held on May 11, for freshmen and sophomores.

List Vitamins In Some Foods

NEW YORK (UPI)—An average serving of the following canned foods contains 25 per cent or more of the recommended daily dietary allowance of vitamins, minerals and proteins, says the National Canners Association.

Vitamin C—any canned citrus fruit or its juice, tomato juice, sweet potatoes or tomatoes.

Vitamin A—apricots in syrup, purple plums in syrup, apricot nectar, tomato juice, pimientos, pumpkin, spinach, or sweet potatoes.

Iron — prune juice, beans with pork and molasses, clams or corned beef.

Very Stringent Competition Governs Most Band Contests

"My son plays in a high school band," a mother writes. "I'm puzzled about the contests his organization enters. Many bands compete in them. I went along to one contest. My son's band stood at attention for 30 minutes, while judges inspected it minutely. The men even measured the distance between the cuffs of members' trousers and the heels of their shoes, making sure the uniforms were exactly the right length. My boy swears one man looked up his nostrils to see if his nose needed blowing. At last the band played two pieces, and marched past a reviewing stand, then the members were dismissed. They had to wait until 9 p.m. to find out who won. My son's band received the highest rating in music and in marching, but it lost the contest because several boys' pantlegs were a quarter of an inch too short. This seems silly to me. Aren't bands supposed to provide fun, and musical training? Or is the purpose pantleg measuring?"

I think school bands are wonderful things which add to school loyalty and pride. They give many members worthwhile experiences. But band contests can be carried too far. Competition in the contests has become very keen. Many school bands play their pieces perfectly; their marching is flawless. In order to have a winner, judges must magnify insignificant details.

There is a solution. School choruses often have festivals called "adjudications." They gather at a large auditorium. Each group sings separately, before a panel of experts. Immediately afterward they are told what their strong points are and where they need improvement. There is no competition between groups. Usually they wind up their day singing together, in one great chorus. I think our band leaders might well drop the contests and have adjudications instead.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

Elephant Driven Berserk, Killed By Man-Made Madness With LSD

VAN DELLEN

Oklahoma psychiatrists do things in a big way, when it comes to research. They bypassed the usual laboratory animals and selected Tusko, a male Asiatic elephant from the Lincoln park zoo in Oklahoma City. The scientists had good reason for making the selection, even though the experiment backfired.

The male elephant is unique in that he goes berserk once or twice a year. The period of madness (musth) lasts two weeks and is of particular interest to psychiatrists. The bull becomes dangerous when on musth, which is the chief reason why there are so few male elephants in captivity. They are likely to attack or destroy anything in their path when on the rampage.

BUT THERE is one peculiarity about this elephantine madness. The animal's eyes begin to water, and a brown, sticky fluid oozes from the temporal glands, located midway between the eyes and ears. What is this fluid and does it have anything to do with his behavior?

The question makes sense because of the ability of certain chemicals to produce temporary insanity in animals and man. Lysergic acid diethylamide (LSD) is the drug used most frequently for experimental purposes.

THE STORY of this research project, which appeared in Science, was written by Dr. Louis J. West and Dr. Chester M. Pierce, of the Oklahoma school of medicine, and Warren D. Thomas of the zoo. They wanted to find out whether they could duplicate musth in Tusko, including the discharge from the temporal glands.

A dose of LSD, comparable to that used in humans, was administered via a cartridge syringe. The old boy began to sway, trumpeted, collapsed, and went into convulsions. He died in an hour and 40 minutes.

AN AUTOPSY was done and there was no dark fluid in the ducts of the temporal glands. Studies showed that the gland also produces an internal secretion that might contribute to the male animal's madness.

But there is another side to the experiment that should be mentioned. LSD is being used by irresponsible persons to produce temporary illusions and vivid visual hallucinations. If it will kill an elephant, it might kill these blockheads.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request.)

DAMP WEATHER HEADACHE

C. R. writes: What makes me suffer from headache in damp, rainy weather?

REPLY

Aching in the back part of the head may represent referred pain from an arthritic condition in the spine. If discomfort is located elsewhere, investigate the sinuses and nasal passageways.

EXCESS SALT

J. F. writes: What are the consequences of using too much salt?

REPLY

The excess is excreted by the kidneys in the normal individual. On the other hand, high blood pressure and dropsy are aggravated by too much salt. This is why a low sodium diet is recommended in these disorders.

NEVER TOO OLD

Mrs. F. writes: My husband says I'm too old to take the tablets against polio and that, besides, they would make me sick and do no good. Is this true for a 52 year old?

REPLY

No. Reactions to this vaccine are rare and it should be taken by everyone, regardless of age.

NERVE CANCER

M. M. writes: Can cancer affect a nerve?

REPLY

Yes, but it is not a common type of tumor.

Giving Hurt By Tax Cut?

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The proposed new tax rules may change the aspect of one of the fastest growing segments of American life — philanthropy.

Tax deductible has been a slogan in many money raising campaigns. President John F. Kennedy proposes that a limit be put on just how deductible these contributions can be.

Individuals and corporations have multiplied their giving in the last 30 years. But in that period changing government activities have taken over some of the fields most popular for giving a generation or two ago. And a new emphasis on research and education has boomed these outlets for private donations.

Organized philanthropy is said to collect around 10 billion dollars a year. Corporate giving has jumped sharply since World War II, but individual contributions still account for four-fifths of the total.

Tax collectors have allowed deductions for most of such gifts. The president proposes that most personal deductions be limited to those in excess of 5 per cent of the gross taxable income.

The effect that may have on the charitable impulse is debatable. Many will go on giving because they want to support activities close to their hearts. Others may be less quick to dip into their pockets, if it doesn't help shave the tax bill.

In the last 30 years personal giving has increased from an average of 1¼ per cent of after-tax income to 2¼ per cent.

But there have been changes. In the past more than half of the philanthropic dollar was channeled through religious institutions. Now considerable less than half is. The biggest percentage increases are in gifts to higher education, research, health, welfare and cultural institution.

New government activities and changing corporate practices have aided the development. Social Security payments, unemployment benefits, corporate pension systems, public relief agencies, the spread of government built hospitals, all have cut down on the once primary concern of the charitable-aid to the poor, aged, jobless.

At the same time the big explosion in science has opened fields for giving unknown a generation or two ago. And advances in medical science have cut down on the inroads of disease, the crippling and early killing that once represented the greatest need for charity.

Not all of the philanthropic giving comes within the scope of tax deductions. But most of it does. And the part that the deduction factor plays in motivating the gift, or the size of it, is doubtless considerable.

How much may be put to the test, if Congress changes the rules.

Economy Would Suffer In Disarmament

EDITOR'S NOTE: A study made recently in Great Britain said that beating swords into plowshares would be a costly endeavor but richly beneficial in the long run. This story discusses the economic consequences disarmament might have in the United States.)

By NORMAN WALKER

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States can count on a happy binge of economic chaos if world diplomats ever agree to disarmament.

It would be joyful because of the age-old great hope that by junking armies and weapons under some effective control system mankind could be spared the scourge of war.

It would be chaotic because, whether disarmament came overnight or gradually, whether completely or piecemeal, it would be tremendously disruptive to the nation's economy.

The federal government, states and communities, industry and labor all would have to pull together in a concerted drive to adjust to vast changes involved in abandoning production for war. This would be necessary to avoid plunging the country into a full-scale depression.

Yet, difficult and costly as to the switchover would be, the experts say it could be managed and become a blessing. According to one official, "Whatever the cost it's bound to be cheaper" than the arms race.

Consider the effect on your own community and the nation as a whole. The federal government spends about 100 billion dollars a year, half of which goes to defense-related activities. They swallow up a tenth of the nation's annual wealth. They provide jobs for one tenth of all workers.

Wide disarmament, production would be stopped or vastly cut on missiles, planes, tanks, guns, warships and the whole array of war-making hardware, plus the huge supplies of materials needed to produce and maintain them. Practically every type of business would feel the economic blow.

Jobs of some 6.5 million workers in the armed forces, in government defense agencies and in defense-producing industries would be jeopardized.

Areas with heavily defense-oriented economies naturally would be hit hardest but no sector of the country could expect to be spared. The effect on the stock market and financial values would be awesome.

How quickly and successfully the void could be filled would depend largely on the wisdom and determination of the nation's leaders and individual citizens.

All this has been under study for some time by the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency, which says:

"Even general and complete disarmament could not provide more than a part of the resources that would be needed to satisfy our unmet civilian needs—these needs are far greater than our defense effort.

"The basic problem for the United States in the event of disarmament is not one of an excess of human and physical resources, but of how we can most quickly and efficiently shift the released resources to serving our numerous and extensive civilian requirements."

Heavy defense expenditures obviously have caused the nation to put off many worthwhile projects which, unlike armament production, would advance the material, cultural and spiritual status of a fast-growing population. The arms control agency has worked up a list of such projects.

For example, the agency estimates that to educate children already born, without improving present standards of instruction, will require total annual expenditures by 1970 about double present school costs. It says advancing technology also requires billions more for studies not included in the usual school fare today.

It lists billions needed for expended and improved housing, urban renewal and mass transportation, public works, resources development, and various health and social requirements. Moreover, it forecasts increased aid to less developed countries abroad once the arms spending burden is lifted.

Some factors would tend to minimize economic disruption. Disarmament may come in phases, known in advance and planned for. A world police force may be required, with this country contributing substantially.

Many elements that could be helpful in revising the economy are considered in the government's study of disarmament consequences. There is a wealth of experience to draw on in the successful shifting to a peacetime footing after World War II and the Korean War.

Federal taxes could be cut quickly. This would leave more funds available to business and individuals. It likely also could mean an important new role for states to fill in the readjustment.

Programs to aid business and restrain workers could be quickly adopted. Recently enacted laws are laying a groundwork for this. Firms adversely affected by imports are eligible for help under the new Trade Expansion Act. Worker retraining is under way to combat present unemployment.

Scientific talent, a large part of which now is engaged in military research and development, could be directed at solving civilian problems. Much more effort could be devoted to developing atomic energy and space exploration programs.

Among areas that would feel the greatest impact of disarmament, relatively speaking, are Alaska and Hawaii, where one quarter of all personal income comes from defense-related payrolls.

Other areas where defense activities play a major proportionate economic role are the Washington, D.C., vicinity and the states of New Mexico, Florida, Kansas, Oklahoma, Utah, South Carolina, Georgia and Alabama.

States with huge defense payrolls include California, where such payments exceeded 4.2 billion dollars in 1960; Texas, with 1.3 billion dollars, and Virginia, with one billion dollars. New York and Pennsylvania also have heavy defense-related payrolls but their impact is relatively less because of more diversified economies.

Examples of communities substantially dependent on defense spending are Los Angeles, Seattle, Cape Canaveral, Wichita, Kan.; Boston, Huntsville, Ala.; Newport, R.I.; Portsmouth, N.H.; Norfolk, Va., and New London, Conn.

Wild Area Proposed For Central Sierra

A U.S. Forest Service proposal to establish a 50,540 acre wild area in the central Sierra was announced today by regional forester Charles A. Connaughton.

The area, which would be known as the Mokelumne Wild Area, is located in the upper drainage of the Mokelumne River in Alpine, Amador and Calaveras counties near the crest of the Sierra between the Ebbetts Pass and Carson Pass highways about 60 miles east of Sacramento.

Under wild area classification the Mokelumne area would be managed to preserve its wilderness character. No roads would be built into the area; travel would be by foot or horseback only.

Construction would be limited to trail and campground improvements necessary for safety and health. No trees would be cut except as an emergency measure to stop the spread of wildfire or destructive insects and disease.

Grazing by domestic livestock, hunting and fishing would be continued and mining laws would still apply.

Commercial timber covers about 8 per cent of the area although much non-commercial timber grows. The area is ideal for campsites. The commercial volume is estimated at 42 million board feet, all in remote areas.

There are 12 small lakes in the area and numerous live streams all of which support fish. The timbered pockets provide cover for wildlife and for wilderness type camping.

"Notice of the proposal will be published for six months and, if sufficient demand justifies it, a public hearing will be held before final recommendation for classification is made," Connaughton said.

He pointed out that several conservation groups have expressed an interest in the establishment of the wild area.

Dancing Dragon, Sports Show Begin Visitor Year

A dancing dragon and one of America's finest recreation shows will launch the 1963 visitor year for Northern California's Redwood Empire in February.

San Francisco's annual National Sports and Boat Show holds sway at the Cow Palace, Feb. 1 through 10. From Feb. 3 through 10, Chinatown stages its New Year's festival, capped with the Golden Dragon parade down Grant Avenue on Feb. 9.

The Golden Gate Invitational Indoor Track Meet takes over at the Cow Palace on Feb. 15.

Farther north, the Lakeport Fairgrounds will play host to area barbershop quartets on Feb. 16 for Lake County's annual Parade of Harmony. The Clearlake Oaks Lions Club presents its community crab feed on Clear Lake's north shore Feb. 24.

At Cloverdale, in northern Sonoma County, the 61st annual Citrus Fair runs Feb. 21 through 24, with a parade on Feb. 23. Cloverdale is the northernmost American city where oranges and lemons are grown commercially.

Finally in Golden Gate Park's Japanese Tea Garden, cherry blossoms are awaited—weather permitting—around the end of February, fitting climax to the beginning of the Redwood Empire's visitor season.

Deactivation Rumor Denied

Officials at Hamilton Air Force Base today denied a rumor that the 83rd Fighter Interceptor Squadron would be deactivated.

Capt. Lyle Barker of the joint office of information at the base said a rumor has been going around Hamilton that the 83rd, last year's winner of the Hughes Trophy for the best fighter interceptor squadron, would be absorbed by the 84th Fighter Interceptor Squadron at the end of this fiscal year. He said there has been no official word of such a plan.

The two squadrons comprise the 78th Fighter Wing, which is charged with the air defense of Northern California.

New Air Compressors Due North Bay Span

Two new air compressors will be installed on the Richmond-San Rafael Bridge at a cost of $78,300.

The State Department of Public Works announced yesterday that the contract for the job went to D. W. Nicholson Corp. of San Leandro. The compressors are used in sand blasting, painting and propelling the painting scaffolds on the bridge.

The Mint has not stamped out a silver dollar since 1935, but it has almost 74 million on hand.

'Stop Me From Jumping,' Note Said; They Did

"Please stop me from jumping," read a note tossed last night to a Golden Gate Bridge toll collector from an automobile heading north out of San Francisco.

The note went on to say that the writer was "on the bottle again, the last two days" and again urged "please stop me," ending with the name of a San Francisco physician to be called.

California Highway Patrolman J. E. Halligan went after the car as a report arrived that it had stopped in the extreme right lane on the bridge at 7 p.m.

Its driver, Ralph E. Reynolds, 41, a San Francisco salesman, had climbed over the east rail and was on a painters' scaffold. He returned, said he was depressed over family problems, and was committed to San Francisco City and County Hospital for observation.

Claims Union 'Harassment'

An attorney has been retained by co-owners of Ed's Auto Supply of 851 Fourth Street, San Rafael, to seek means of blocking union "harassment."

Basis of the effort, according to Sol Smith, who owns the store jointly with Coleman Wexler, is that no employee wishes to join San Rafael Teamsters Union Local 624.

"Our people say they are perfectly satisfied," said Smith today as he glumly surveyed two Teamsters Union pickets carrying signs to advertise that the store is non-union.

New Notary Public

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Secretary of State Frank M. Jordan today announced issuance of a notary public commission to Harold A. Strouss, 535 Miller Avenue, Mill Valley.

Redwood High Gets U.C. Merit Award

Redwood High School has been granted an award of merit for scholarship from the University of California, Principal Donald Kreps announced today. The award is based on the collective first-semester record of Redwood graduates entering the university between 1959 and 1962.

As Redwood opened in the fall of 1958 this represented achievement of students in the school's first three graduating classes.

A university representative will present the award at the final student body assembly next June 10.

Historical Society Re-Elects Marinite

Allan Aproul of Kentfield was re-elected to the board of directors of the California Historical Society at its January meeting in San Francisco.

Dr. Albert M. Shumate was re-elected president.

LUXURY

A spacious home in a lovely setting. Overlooking a picturesque valley view with over an acre of land, this oak studded knoll makes for true living enjoyment. The custom features in the home include a 17 x 28 living room with beamed ceilings. The family room with second corner fireplace has large view windows. There are three twin size bedrooms and 2½ baths. A very serviceable kitchen includes built-ins and eating area.

For your outdoor pleasure a protected 18 x 36 pool and an ideal area, away from living quarters, for a future stable and room for horses. The country gentleman will be pleased, and the family will be delighted.

HAPPINESS

A home the whole family will enjoy. Children will delight in their own playhouse right off their own bedroom. Dad can retreat to his den (or can be used as 4th bedroom). Mom will love the modern kitchen and spacious master bedroom. And there's still room for guests. A well kept yard, and located in a very desirable family community.

$24,500

EXCITING

The sophisticates will adore this truly contemporary home. The master bedroom suite is oversized and there are 2 other bedrooms and 2 baths. A sheltered patio off the family room and the kitchen is modern all the way. From the sliding door and floor to ceiling windows in the living room, a view of an ultra-modern professionally designed patio; offering complete privacy and especially suited to the discriminating buyer.

$28,500

CLOSE IN

A handsome home of 3 bedrooms and 2 baths. Electric kitchen is spacious and loaded with cupboards, and a step away from the charming family room. So close to schools, shopping and transportation, it's truly an ideal home for the growing family.

$28,750

EXQUISITE

It is our pleasure to offer this lovely custom built home situated on 1 level acre in desirable San Rafael Country Club Estates. All the finest appointments throughout. 5 bedrooms in all and 3 baths. You could enjoy the picturesque view of nicely groomed grounds from the grand living room. For formal entertaining there is a large dining room. The oversized kitchen adjoins maid's quarters and baths. For the home of distinction there is nothing finer.

$65,000

CONSIDER

Need more room? How about 5 bedrooms? This older home has been nicely remodeled and is located on a quiet street close to schools and churches. From the cheerful kitchen there is a clear view of the Civic Center. It almost looks like a picture. The fenced yard is about 50 x 100 and with all the extras, this is a great buy for you now or as an investment.

$22,500

111—Used Imported and Sports Cars for Sale

What to look for in a used car

We sell new Volkswagens, mainly, but our customers have put us in a thriving used car business with their trade-ins. And we like our used car customers to go out of here as satisfied as our new Volkswagen owners.

The check list below is for your convenience. A car that rates 100% we'd call "factory clean." Of course you can't ask for perfection in a vintage economy model. But you can make sure you know what you're getting for whatever you're paying.

Besides price, year, color, style, make and model, you can look into a few less obvious points to assure yourself of the car's worth with this check list.

We'd rather have you satisfied—than just sold.

On the lot, look for:
- ☐ Tires with evenly worn tread.
- ☐ Tight windows and doors.
- ☐ Lights and accessories that work.
- ☐ Clean, undamaged upholstery and flooring.
- ☐ Spare tire, jack, tire iron.
- ☐ Good radiator hose, fan belt, distributor, cables, wipers.
- ☐ Tight hubcaps.
- ☐ Locks that work.

Look out for:
- ☐ Rust around fenders and seams.
- ☐ Loose tail pipe or muffler.
- ☐ Loose bumpers.
- ☐ Water spots inside — possibly from leaks.
- ☐ Frame out of line.
- ☐ Corroded battery housing.
- ☐ Loose chrome strips.

Check these points in road test:
- ☐ Good springs and shock absorbers.
- ☐ Comfortable steering that doesn't pull to either side.
- ☐ Firm brakes that don't pull to either side.
- ☐ Effective emergency brakes.
- ☐ Speedometer and other gauges that work.
- ☐ Smoke-free exhaust.

And look out for these:
- ☐ Jerky transmission.
- ☐ Slipping clutch.
- ☐ Air leaks — around doors, windows, vents.
- ☐ Rattles.
- ☐ Overheating.
- ☐ Wobbly front wheels.
- ☐ Tendency to stall.
- ☐ Brake pedal that goes down too far.

We have all kinds of used cars on the lot today. Some nearly new; some fairly old, all worth investigating.

MARIN FILM FARE

It's A Spectacular Movie Week

By LES DARD

It's a spectacular week for film spectaculars on Marin County screens:

RAFAEL THEATER

"Taras Bulba," arriving Sunday, is a picture of thundering action and pounding excitement, a story of fierce Cossack horsemen during the 16th century.

The film takes us back before the consolidation of Russia, when Poles and Turks battled for the Ukraine, and the Cossacks performed as mercenaries for the Poles. The action centers around a betrayal of the Cossacks by the Poles.

Yul Brynner plays the title role, that of a Cossack chieftain who raises two sons, Tony Curtis and Perry Lopez, to help him seek vengeance against the Poles.

Brynner's single-minded determination for retribution is complicated when son Curtis falls in love with Christine Kaufman, beautiful daughter of a Polish noble. Trying to end the bloodshed, Curtis switches loyalties.

TAMALPAIS THEATER

Stewart Granger and Pier Angeli star in the biblical film "Sodom and Gomorrah," now showing.

It is a biblical epic which places major emphasis on spirituality. The major dramatic attention is placed on the disintegration of Lot and his austere Hebrews.

The picture's climax comes with surrender of some Hebrews to the standards of the Sodomites, Lot's imprisonment and the divine intercession that rescued him and the Hebrews from the city and its destruction.

NOVATO THEATER

Big names, a cast of thousands and a 12-million-dollar price tag went into the making of "Spartacus," arriving Sunday. The result is a tremendous movie.

The picture tells a true story of ancient Rome. Spartacus was a Thracian slave being trained for the gladiatorial ring. Revolted by Roman cruelty and yearning to be free, he led a rebellion.

Kirk Douglas excels in the title role, supported by Jean Simmons who plays his wife. Others in memorable performances are Laurence Olivier, Peter Ustinov, Charles Laughton, Woody Strode and Herbert Lom.

SEQUOIA THEATER

A powerful double bill opens Sunday:

"Barabbas," a 10-million-dollar spectacular about the murderer-thief spared by Pontius Pilate on the day Christ was crucified, stars Anthony Quinn, Sylvano Mangano, Jack Palance, Vittorio Gassman and Arthur Kennedy.

Barabbas, after witnessing the execution and resurrection, is a man torn between good and evil. He goes back to banditry, is sent to the sulphur mines, returned to Rome as a gladiator and is finally crucified himself.

"Requiem for a Heavyweight" is the story of a heavyweight fighter who has been battered physically and mentally and must abandon the boxing.

FAIRFAX THEATER

Another exceptional double bill now showing:

"La Dolce Vita" is writer-director Fredrico Fellini's controversial editorial on the degeneracy of modern Rome. It unfolds a story of decadence in 12 startling episodes.

"Two Women" is the shocking Italian war film which earned an Oscar as best actress for its star, Sophia Loren.

Both for adults.

LARK THEATER

A marvelously amusing mockery of Italian law—which permits no divorces — is seen currently in "Divorce—Italian Style."

With divorce illegal, a husband or wife seeking to end the union must find other means. Hence, this is a comedy about the killing of a wife!

The film traces bitingly and hilariously the elaborate connivances by which the husband uses an old flame of his wife's to create a situation in which murder would be forgivable in the Italian courts.

For adults.

TIBURON PLAYHOUSE

Two of Hollywood's best efforts of 1962 are paired this weekend:

"Birdman of Alcatraz" stars Burt Lancaster as Robert Stroud, who has spent his life in prisons and built himself an international reputation as an authority on birds.

Co-featured is "The Miracle Worker," story of the childhood of blind, deaf, mute Helen Keller and Annie Sullivan, the young Irish teacher who performed the miracle that made Miss Keller universally recognized as a symbol of hope for the handicapped.

MOTOR MOVIES

"A Majority of One" is a charming comedy-melodrama about an unlikely but intriguing East-meets-West romance, starring Rosalind Russell and Alec Guinness.

Miss Russell plays a middle-aged Jewish widow from Brooklyn who accompanies her daughter and diplomat son-in-law to Japan. Enroute she becomes attracted to a wealthy Japanese widower, Guinness. The ensuing complications are amusing and provocative.

"The Sundowners" is co-featured.

101 DRIVE-IN

"Marriage-Go-Round" is a frank comedy dealing with the question of faithfulness to one's marriage partner. It stars James Mason and Susan Hayward as the couple whose vows face a supreme test in the person of Julie Newmar.

Adult audiences will enjoy this one.

Co-featured is "Marines Let's Go."

TWO IN THE 'DREAM'—Joan McKinney of Tiburon plays "Mommy" and Mary Jane H. Daren of San Francisco (seated) "Mrs. Barker" in the one-act play "The American Dream" which opens tonight at 8:30 o'clock at the Sausalito Little Theater. It is one of two one-act plays by Edward Albee being presented. The other is "The Sand Box." (Herman Arrow photo)

AMERICA SATIRIZED

Two Plays Opening At Little Theater

"The Sand Box" and "The American Dream" will open a four-week run at 8:30 tonight at the Sausalito Little Theater.

Both are one-act plays by Edward Albee and both share the same cast and a theme in which American mores and values are satirized in high comic style.

Dion M. Chesse of Sausalito is director. The cast includes veteran Sausalito Little Theater players Jessie Diffley of San Rafael, Joan McKinney of Tiburon, Chester Werlin and Mary Jane H. Daren, both of San Francisco and John Garber of Mill Valley.

Pet Cat Is Shot

Bethel Bodine of 382 Monte Vista Avenue, Mill Valley, reported to police Wednesday that sometime in the last few days her pet cat was shot with buck-shot. She said she is having him treated by a veterinarian.

Wind, Dry Weather A Menace

The combination of strong winds and dry weather which has prevailed in Marin County is posing a serious menace to shrubs and trees, especially evergreens.

So Marin home owners were warned today by a gardening authority, Carl Hanscam of Mill Valley.

Hanscam, gardener for the Golden Gate Bridge District, noted that grasses—both lawn and range—are also being threatened.

"Several of my neighbors have understandably blamed frost for damage which is actually being caused by the prolonged drought," Hanscam said. He advised home owners: "Check your plants, particularly moisture-loving ones such as evergreen vines, rhododendrons, camellias, evergreen ferns, lawn grasses, daphne, etc., and water where there is any sign of dryness or dead leaves. This will be beneficial, especially if the weather turns very cold again."

Twin Cities Rec Meeting Put Off

Last night's meeting of the Larkspur-Corte Madera Joint Recreation Commission was postponed to 8 p.m. Thursday, chairman Albert E. Kogeler announced today, because the 1963-64 budget was not completely prepared.

The commission's budget committee met Wednesday night and made plans to submit a complete budget for consideration at the commission's next meeting at Larkspur-Corte Madera School, said Kogeler.

"We hope to send the budget to the Larkspur School District board, the Corte Madera Town Council and the Larkspur City Council in February, three months earlier than last year," he said.

Civil Liberties Group To Hear KPFA Speaker

Trevor Thomas, manager of radio station KPFA and acting president of the Pacifica Foundation, the parent organization, will discuss his recent appearance before an investigating congressional subcommittee in a talk Sunday to the American Civil Liberties Union at the Marin County Civic Center.

Also scheduled to speak at the annual ACLU meeting at 8 p.m. is Coleman Blease, ACLU legislative representative, whose subject will be "Civil Liberties and the Legislature."

San Rafael High Bonds Are Purchased

A half million dollars in bonds for the San Rafael High School was turned over to the low bidder yesterday by Marin County Treasurer Stanley J. Fontez.

Sale of the bonds, part of the district's 1960 school bond issue of 2.8 million dollars, was authorized in December to Wells Fargo Bank, one of five bidders. Average annual interest on the bonds is slightly less than 3 per cent.

CHRIS SECOR
Seven-school president

Inter-School Relations Unit Elects

Chris Secor, son of Dr. and Mrs. Charles M. Secor of 30 Palm Avenue, Larkspur, has been elected president of Inter-School Relations Assn., made up of seven Marin high schools.

Secor is the fifth president of the association from Redwood High School, where he is a senior.

Other elected officers are vice president, Denny Smith, of Tamalpais High, and secretary, Barbara Johnson, of San Rafael High.

Under outgoing president John Osborn, the association had a treasury for the first time for a possible spirit trophy at the end of the year and seven workshops were established, one sponsored by each school.

Secor is head of Student Court and an active member of the Ski Club at Redwood.

REA Is Seeking List Of Events

An appeal for a complete listing of fairs, festivals, rodeos, clambakes, sports events and allied entertainments went out today to publicity directors throughout the nine-county Redwood Empire.

The Redwood Empire Assn., veteran promotion organization, wants to include them in its 1963 "Special Events" folder, distributed annually in the Spring to prospective travelers and holidayers.

Dates, places and other information should be directed to REA's San Francisco offices at 46 Kearny Street, according to Gen. Mgr. Carney J. Campion.

Hub Parade Tomorrow

Drake High School's Pep Band and majorettes will parade from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. tomorrow through downtown San Anselmo under direction of bandmaster Perry Smith to publicize the March of Dimes.

TAX FACTS

7 Per Cent Credit For Property

By PETER J. WIKEL, C.P.A.

If you bought property in 1962 that is depreciable because it is used in your business, you may be able to take the new 7 per cent investment credit directly against your income tax.

P. J. Wikel

Here is how it works: If a new piece of equipment cost $10,000 and will last for eight years or more, you will be allowed a credit of 7 per cent of the cost of the equipment.

If your income tax was $900 for 1962, the credit would cut your tax to $200 since the credit would be 7 per cent of $10,000, i.e., $700.

The amount of the credit depends on the life of the business property. If the life is eight or more years, then all the cost is eligible for the credit, as shown in the example above.

If the life is six to eight years, then two-thirds is eligible for the credit. If the life is four to six years, then one-third is elgible for the credit. If the asset life is under four years, you get no credit.

You must reduce the basis of an asset by the amount of credit you are allowed.

The property you buy may be either new or used personal property used in your business. Real property, buildings, etc., do not qualify. Used property only qualifies up to $50,000 cost.

The total credit you may take in one year is limited to $25,000 plus 25 per cent of the tax over that amount.

Any credit not used in 1962 may be carried over to next year's tax returns until it is used. Use Form 3468 in calculating the investment credit and attach this form to your income tax return when filing.

If you are entitled to a credit, you must claim it.

To Study In Europe

Robert H. McCammon, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. C. McCammon of 185 Montecito Road, Country Club Tract, near East San Rafael, will be a student participant next spring in the University of Redlands sixth semester in Europe. A junior at the university, McCammon is a physics major.

Sedan Stolen In Mill Valley

A 1956 Plymouth four-door sedan vanished from a home in Mill Valley Wednesday evening, sheriff's deputies reported.

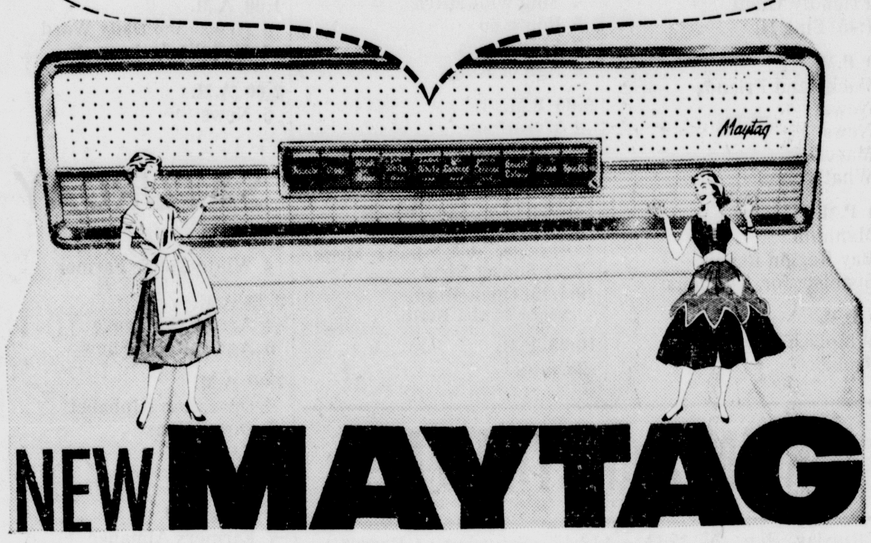

Judith Polacchi of 29 Shell Road told officers she parked her mother's car in front of the house about 1:30 p.m. The keys were on top of the sun visor, and the doors were unlocked. Her brother saw the car still there at dusk. At 7:45 p.m., the car was gone.

It is light gray in color, and bore the license number DOK 069.

Boat, Harbor Meet

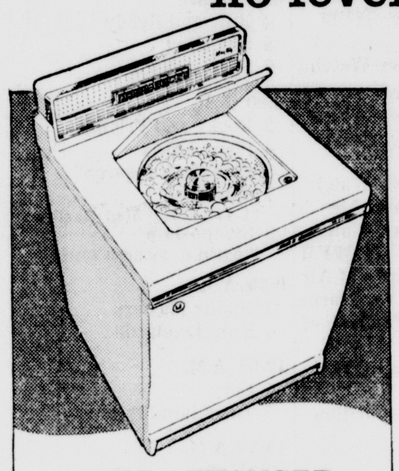

The recently organized Marin County Boat and Harbor Committee has postponed its meeting scheduled for yesterday until Jan. 31. The group will gather at Sabella's Restaurant, Mill Valley at 8 p.m., Maggi Gnau, managing director of the Marin Visitors Bureau, reported.
